

Some MPs Racist, Angry Simma Says

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — Liberal backbencher Simma Holt charged Tuesday that some MPs are racist and anti-Semitic.

Holt said that anti-French attitudes by English-speaking MPs and anti-English attitudes by French-speaking members are in some ways worse than similar feelings among ordinary Canadians.

The B.C. Liberal, a member of the Jewish faith, also stated that she had "a personal experience of anti-Semitism" during a debate in the House.

Parliament, Holt declared "is not a nice place."

She was elaborating in an interview on remarks which she made in the Commons Monday night which angered some MPs.

"Racism is rampant in Canada and it is alive and thriving in this very House of Commons," she stated in the closing hour of the Throne Speech debate.

Martin O'Connell (Lib.-Scarborough East), a former Liberal cabinet minister, said Holt's charge caused him "considerable distress" and both he and Steve Paproski (PC-Edmonton Centre) urged her to withdraw the remark, which she later did.

Holt said that the racism in the House to which she referred "is not just on the Anglophone or the Francophone side — it is in other respects as well."

Holt's remarks seemed to underline a controversial statement by Ottawa-West Liberal MP Lloyd Francis in the Commons Monday charging that his party has imposed a double standard of retribution on members who criticize the government's bilingualism policy.

Francis claimed that Francophone members can say what they want about the language policy while English-speaking backbenchers will damage their careers if they criticize it.

Western Canadians, meanwhile, were defended Tuesday against charges of "bigotry" and "intolerance" on the language issue by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Addressing a Quebec audience, he pleaded for mutual understanding between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians.

"English Canada is a pluralistic and multicultural society with deeply ingrained democratic traditions. I tell you frankly that, in my view, there are no more fanatics in the West than there are in Ontario and Quebec," he told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Montreal.

"Unfortunately in English-speaking Canada as anywhere else, it's the fanatics who make the most noise and write the worst insinuations."

FOOD DOWN —AIB

OTTAWA — Food for home consumption, as measured by the Anti-Inflation Board's food price index, has declined for the fourth consecutive month.

Food prices in mid-October were 0.9 per cent below those recorded in mid-September, and 3.1 per cent below mid-October last year. With the exception of the first two weeks in April, average retail food prices are at the lowest level recorded over the last twelve months. The index, based on 1974 prices equalling 100, stood at 114.7 on October 15 compared to 119.0 a year earlier.

In Vancouver the cost of a nutritious diet for a family of four was $47.42 compared to $45.10 in October last year.

This month, significant price declines were monitored for beef, pork, eggs, poultry, fresh fruit and sugar, while prices of fresh and processed vegetables, processed fruit, fish, and beverages have increased. The largest price increases recorded were for fresh vegetables, due mainly to the impact of unfavorable weather conditions on local supply.

Several food commodities are less expensive to buy now than a year ago, for example, beef, pork, poultry, fresh fruit, sugar, fats and oils.

PILOT DRUNK

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An autopsy showed alcohol in the blood of a ferry boat pilot whose Mississippi River craft collided with a tanker, killing an estimated 100 persons, Coroner Frank Minyard said today. "The blood alcohol level was .09 milligrams per cent," Minyard said.

Inaction on Tax Reform Causing 'Unfair Hardship'

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Thousands of British Columbia taxpayers are carrying an unfair burden because recommendations in a property tax report have not yet been implemented, the report's author told the Times today.

"Property tax reforms are long overdue in British Columbia," Robert McMath said.

"Some of my recommendations should be in effect

this year. I am concerned because the provincial government has not acted and has not even released the report."

The McMath report recommends — That the provincial government pay 75 per cent of all school costs within five years (instead of an average of 45 per cent as at present).

— That all property be taxed at market value rather than assessed value.

— That the provincial government make a grant equal to its full property tax bill to each municipality. At present the province pays only the equivalent of 15 mills. In Victoria 15 mills will generate only $630,500 this year but under the McMath formula the city would get more than $4 million.

The report was delivered to the provincial government in August and was intended to be released immediately so the public could discuss it, McMath said.

In particular, it was to be the main topic of debate at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September. Premier Bill Bennett said the report would not be released until cabinet had agreed on recommendations it would make to the Social Credit caucus. The report is expected to be discussed in general terms at today's Social Credit caucus meeting.

McMath, in a telephone interview, said: "The basic idea of the report is equity, to do what is fair in property taxation."

"Some of the reforms are long overdue and many of them are in effect everywhere in Canada but in British Columbia."

He said Victoria and several other B.C. cities are suffering economic hardship because the provincial government holds valuable land but

SMALL RECOVERY SHOWN BY POUND

LONDON (Reuters) — The British pound made a small recovery on foreign exchange markets today, aided by buying in the Middle East and Europe that pushed it to just below $1.80 U.S.

After closing Tuesday at $1.5905, the pound at first went down below $1.59 but later moved up to around $1.5985. It was worth $1.5473 (Canadian) at noon today.

The depreciation of the pound since December, 1971, narrowed to 47.5 per cent at noon today, from a record-equalling 47.8 per cent earlier in the day.

'TOO MUCH LIQUOR'

Mayor Mike Young said today he is concerned that there may soon be too many liquor outlets in the Greater Victoria area.

Young was commenting on a statement by Frank Burger of Victoria, president of the B.C. Hotels Association, that beer parlors may soon be able to sell liquor as early as next month.

Burger said beer parlors need to be licensed for hard liquor because many small hotels cannot afford cocktail lounges and require liquor sales in order to survive. A provincial government spokesman said Tuesday a statement on liquor laws will be made by Attorney-General Garde Garmen in November but it is not known whether liquor sales will be approved for beer parlors.

Young said the provincial government is under pressure to approve more liquor licenses because many firms see liquor sales as the answer to their economic problems.

"We may soon reach a point when we have too many liquor outlets in this area," the mayor said.

"I am not advocating a total freeze on liquor licenses but I think great care should be taken on any further applications. There should be a demonstrated need before an application is approved."

The mayor said city council is taking an equally tough stand on applications for neighborhood pubs for the same reason.

Young said he is not so much concerned about the blend of alcohol sold as the amount.

He said he can see no reason to oppose the sale of hard liquor in beer parlors when the same combination of beer and hard liquor is available in cocktail lounges but said he is concerned there may be too many outlets, especially in residential areas.

The mayor said hotels fail to realize that if there are too many liquor outlets, there will no longer be any money in liquor sales because of the fierce competition.

"It is like lotteries. Governments think they are the answer to everything but soon there may be too many."

Famed Scientist 'Rigged Researches'

By JOHN EZARD
Manchester Guardian

LONDON — A major scientific fraud involving rigged results has been charged against the late Sir Cyril Burt, the most respected British educational psychologist of his time.

His research studies are still the most widely-quoted in the world on the now-highly controversial subject of the relative influences of heredity and environment in determining human differences.

Researchers at Hull and Princeton Universities who have been going through his papers accuse him of falsifying his results for at least 20 years to prove his own view that heredity is a "stronger factor than environment."

Mrs. Ann Clarke, reader in educational psychology at Hull, said that it was unfortunate that a great man should have to be exposed in this way.

In a joint statement, the Hull team, which also includes Professor Alan Clarke, outgoing professor of psychology said:

"Burt was responsible for misleading many of those engaged in the scientific study of man — a pathetic epitaph for someone with his gifts, earlier achievements, and scientific responsibilities."

Sir Cyril, who was knighted in 1946 and died in 1971, held more of the major British university chairs, public governorships and professional posts in his subject than anyone else of his day.

Even towards the end of his 88 years his contribution to education papers aroused major interest and respect during the 1960s.

After his death, Professor Hans Eysenck said in a radio discussion: "Intelligence within any particular group is largely determined by heredity."

"I thought everyone was taking this for granted. In fact the same point has been made ever since I was a student by Sir Cyril Burt, who carried out many of the best documented studies in this field."

Even though some of the psychologists agree with Burt's conclusions — they are satisfied that his work was fraudulent in many crucial ways.

Dr. Clarke said it was "certainly the case." That the figures he published as a scientific measurement of parental intelligence in 1943 were in fact guesswork.

No intelligence test was then available to provide a statistic as exact as the one he published — an impossibly high average IQ of 153.2 for higher professional and administrative parents, which suggested they were far more intelligent than Cambridge University scientists.

Revising this paper and titling it Intelligence and Social Mobility in 1961, he reduced his figures to a more plausible 139.7.

More seriously, he repeatedly produced the same statistical correlation of IQs from different surveys of different groups.

AMIN JAILS OWN SONS

NAIROBI (UPI) — President Idi Amin has sent two of his teen-age sons to reform school for unspecified crimes, Uganda Radio said today.

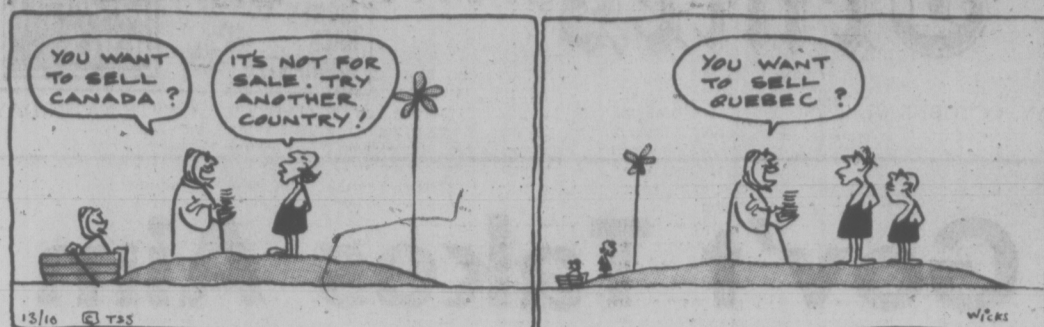

Amin sent the two boys, Abdu and Ali, to a Kampala prison last November accusing them of unspecified offenses, the radio said, and they were later moved to a reform school where they remain.

"It makes no difference they are my children," the radio quoted the president as saying.

Closer Check Wanted By Gov't on B.C. Tel

OTTAWA (CP) — A lawyer for the British Columbia government said Tuesday a closer eye must be kept on deals between B.C. Telephone and companies owned by shareholders of the telephone company.

K. C. Mackenzie said the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) must be more thorough than the Canadian Transport Commission was in looking at the link between B.C. Telephone and its equipment suppliers, Automatic Electric and Lenkurt.

Mackenzie stressed, however, that the B.C. government is not saying there is abuse in relations between the companies.

In Victoria, Transport Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday

the statement in Ottawa was prompted by a departmental assessment of shortcomings in the province's monopoly telephone system.

Davis said analysts in his department have found that

B.C. Tel "doesn't measure up in performance when compared with Bell Telephone in eastern Canada" in a number of respects — its handling of complaints, the quality of service and technological advances.

Blood ... Straight From the Clinic

At the height of the blood-donor clinic at the University of Victoria Tuesday, an emergency call for six pints of A-positive came in from the heart unit of the Royal Jubilee.

The blood was rushed right from the clinic — where UVic donors gave a total of 254 pints — and used to save an open-heart patient.

Gerry Savage, Red Cross field co-ordinator for Vancouver Island, said the half-way mark of the 2,500-pint target for the month has finally been passed.

The first day of the three-day UVic clinic brought the total to 1,390.

Clinics continue today and Thursday at the Student Union Building at UVic from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and then move to the Royal Jubilee nurses' residence on Richmond on Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Savage said the increase in open-heart surgery at Royal Jubilee threw off his prediction for 1976. He said he estimated a five to six per cent increase over last year, but at the end of September, it was closer to nine per cent.

The Jubilee is averaging 19 open-heart operations a month, he said.

Nixon Tapes Ruled Public

TAX BREAK FOR FIT CITIZENS?

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The federal government should give tax reductions to Canadians who can prove they are physically fit, Dr. Donald Newton, president of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, said Tuesday.

He said in an interview the federal government should make health care a national priority.

Dr. Newton, here to meet with provincial government officials on health and recreation programs, said the federal government spends $306 a person each year on health services.

"Despite the fact that health costs are spiralling and more services being provided, 50 per cent of Canadians are obese."

The government must provide motivation to ensure a greater fitness level and one of the best ways would be through tax reductions, he said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American people may soon be able to hear — at a cost of up to $200 a set — the taped voice of Richard Nixon speaking the words that cost him the presidency two years ago.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday the tapes used in the Watergate conspiracy trial may be made public without waiting for the cover-up defendants to exhaust their appeals at the Supreme Court.

But Herbert Miller, one of Nixon's lawyers, said this ruling itself will be appealed.

The ruling doesn't make the tapes available right away. Even without an appeal, District Judge John Sirica would have to decide what government agency will be responsible for distributing the tapes at cost and whether private organizations can sell the series at a profit.

The conversations are not secret. Transcripts were published by the government and in commercial paperback books shortly after they were released by the Nixon White House in 1974.

But most of the nation has not heard them and reporters covering the trial said the transcripts, full of broken sentences and partial thoughts, do not reflect the forcefulness of the conversations or Nixon's decisive role.

Collins carried ashore

Shipwreck Survived on Hope

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bruce Collins says three rainstorms and his fondness for sleep helped him survive a 28-day shipwreck ordeal that killed two companions adrift with him in a raft.

But his parents say self-confidence and optimism saved the tall, gaunt but rosy-cheeked young sailor who arrived here Tuesday aboard a Coast Guard cutter that plucked him from the Pacific Ocean on Sunday about 800 miles west of here.

"I just got into it — slept a lot," Collins said after he was rushed by ambulance to the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital. "I slept as much as I could. . . I just felt fine. I'm a recreational sleeper."

Collins told his parents that emergency water supplies ran out 13 days after he, Jim Ahola and Camilla Arthur took to a small life raft when their 42-foot yacht Spirit sank during a storm on Sept. 27. Two other survivors were rescued from a separate life raft six days before Collins was found.

"We were able to catch rain water from the canopy on the raft," he said. "Probably after the water ran out, we got maybe three good rainstorms. . . That would be a pint of water each time."

The 23-year-old business student-turned-adventurer refused to say how Ahola, 25, and Miss Arthur, 20 died. He said he first wanted to give their families the courtesy of personally telling them.

His mother, Kathryn Collins of Walnut Creek, Calif., said she asked her son whether he had given up hope during his days and nights alone on the high seas. "He said, 'Heck no. I was going to drift to California,'" she said. "He's always been strong and optimistic."

Though Collins was malnourished, dehydrated and infected with sores when rescued, his condition improved as he was fed soup and other liquids during the voyage here.

In fact, Collins arrived in such good condition that he wanted to try a hamburger as his first bit of solid food, his doctor said. His only serious problem was sores on his arms and legs caused by heat and lack of hygiene on the raft.

Collins, a veteran of about six years of intensive sailing, had at least temporarily given up a career with an accounting firm to sail around the Pacific and gain experience to become a master mariner.

Mrs. Collins, her banker husband, Kenneth, their daughter, Mary, and a friend of young Collins were allowed to see him aboard ship and visited him at the hospital.

Relatives said Ahola was an outdoorsman who had done some photography. Miss Arthur was his girl friend.

Collins told his rescuers that Ahola died Oct. 19, and Miss Arthur died two days later.

The other crew members were Miss Arthur's friend, Nancy Perry, 21, and Durel Miller, 28, whom Jackson met on an earlier cruise around the Hawaiian Islands.

$40,500 CAR SELLS

LONDON (CP) — Aston Martin, the company rescued by Canadian and United States capital, is being "overwhelmed" by orders for its expensive new four-door Lagonda, a company spokesman said at the British Motor Show Tuesday.

The car, hand-built at a retail price of £24,570 ($40,500), is a lengthened version of the company's Aston Martin V-8.

Directors of the company, purchased by North American interests last year for $157 million, voted last week to double production to two Lagondas a week, the spokesman said.

He added that orders were coming from North America, Britain, Europe and from oil-rich Arabs but "we won't be bulldozed into making a lot of cars a week."

"There is no way our little company could increase production without sacrificing quality. It's not that kind of car. Quality is the thing and we are level-headed enough to keep within our capacity."

Say It At Home

Despite the amazing and shattering changes and social and economic developments of the last three decades, the central event of the 20th century for many people alive today remains the Second World War.

A reminder of this monumental conflict's continuing imprint on millions of minds came this week with Prime Minister Trudeau's public apology to the Japanese for the miserable treatment thousands of them received in Canada during the war.

The decision to relocate forcibly and detain in prison camps some 23,000 Japanese — most of them residents of towns along the B.C. coast — "was not a proud one," Trudeau told his hosts in Japan Monday near the end of a week's visit. To a few, the PM's words may seem craven. What the Japanese suffered in Canada during the war was minuscule compared to the fate of millions of other war victims, they'll say. True enough.

But what made the action against the Japanese in Canada reprehensible in its own right was that most of the Japanese whose homes and possessions and jobs were seized were Canadians, some second-generation citizens, born and raised on the same soil as the rest of us. Several hundred of them fought with honor and distinction for Canada in the First World War. Most were as patriotic as the next British subject. In fact, in the mid-1930s when asked by a UBC grad student of their own race who was compiling his thesis, large numbers said they would fight to defend Canada against invasion by Japanese from Japan.

Indeed, the only thing of Trudeau's apology which appears wrong is its venue. It is sadly out of place. Canada is the proper location for an apology to a minority group of Canadians who were badly mistreated by their fellow countrymen 35 years ago. The prime minister should have stopped off in Vancouver — scene of some of the worst injustices — on his way back to Ottawa and walked through Powell Street and Steveston expressing personally to the few Japanese still living in their former communities a sense of shame on behalf of 22 million fellow Canadians.

Smallpox

By the end of 1976, exactly 180 years after English physician Edward Jenner invented vaccination specifically to treat the disease, smallpox will probably no longer exist anywhere in the world.

The event was marked by short news stories in the back pages last month, since it has been years since this most contagious of killer diseases has killed anything like the great numbers stricken in wildfire epidemics of decades past.

But the importance of eradicating smallpox cannot be overemphasized. Today, "a pox on both your houses" is a quaint Shakespearean curse. When it was written four centuries ago, no man could wish more evil on another — of those who contracted smallpox, half usually died.

Before it is relegated to the medical dictionaries, reflect a moment on the revolutionary public health implications of smallpox's demise.

It is not known where smallpox originated, although one authority says the earliest accounts of the disease, dating from the sixth century A.D., describe it as occurring in epidemic form in Arabia, Egypt and southern Europe. It seems likely it began somewhere in Asia and spread through the old world. Smallpox was known in England in the 13th century, and the crusades appear to have spread the disease throughout Europe.

It was one of the "blessings" of civilization the old world conferred upon the new, almost as soon as North America was discovered, "and throughout the known world, destructive epidemics were of frequent occurrence during succeeding centuries."

How did it affect the aboriginal inhabitants of the new world? Read anthropologist Wilson Duff, considered one of the foremost authorities on Indians in B.C.

They knew smallpox almost from the first moment of contact with Europeans in the 1770s. Duff describes smallpox as "the most destructive" of several causes contributing to the steep decline in population of the native peoples on the west coast of Canada.

He quotes an American missionary who wrote in 1829 after visiting the Haidas (who inhabit the Queen Charlotte Islands), that the natives he met still remembered the terrible ravages of a smallpox outbreak late in the 18th century.

"Many of their old men recollect, and they say, it almost desolated their country."

Another epidemic spread along the north coast in 1836, of which James Douglas said two years later that "it had greatly thinned the Native Tribes." He added that "the effects of this visitation will not soon wear out of remembrance with the Natives of Fort Simpson and their northern neighbors, among whom the mortality is computed at one third of the whole population."

But, says Duff, "the most terrible single calamity to befall the Indians of B.C. was the smallpox epidemic which started in Victoria in 1862."

It spread far and fast, "raging unchecked until it exhausted itself for want of material." Within two years it hit almost every corner of the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia. By the time it had burned out in the mid-1860s, there were only 40,000 Indians left, where 60,000 lived before. That already was a considerable reduction from the 80,000 native people estimated to inhabit what is now B.C. before the first white contacts.

In these uncertain times of mysterious virus diseases, chronic pollution of the environment and other malaises we can at least give praise that we are free of smallpox. It is no small blessing.

Dangerous BNA Act Politics

TORONTO — It is frequently said, by journalists as much as anyone, that constitutional reform is a bore and of no public interest. How so? If the absurd, the grotesque and the antics of Mickey Mouse politicians do not qualify as "news," what does?

Consider. The constitution of Canada is a statute of a foreign country and can only be amended by the government and parliament of that country. What other nation is the world can make that claim?

James Richardson resigns from the federal cabinet in opposition to an alleged constitutional policy, which resignation not only begs the question as to where Richardson has been for the past six years but proves, even on the most superficial analysis, that he doesn't know what the current constitution provides. Even Gerald Ford can't rise to such heights of stupidity.

Premier Robert Bourassa calls an election in Quebec because, he says, he needs a mandate for his constitutional position in upcoming negotiations which are to determine, he says, Quebec's place in a reborn Canada. Even Charles de Gaulle never had such visions of unreality.

Mickey Mouse

Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta, in his capacity as chairman of this year's conference of provincial premiers, reports to Prime Minister Trudeau on what the premiers agreed or disagreed upon constitutionally, and manages to mess up the crux of the whole thing. Lougheed, it is painfully clear, didn't understand what some of the premiers were telling him.

One of those premiers was William Davis of Ontario, who saw Lougheed's letter to Trudeau in draft form and knew it was incorrect but did nothing about it, on the theory that all that really mattered in the letter was its request to meet with Trudeau again, and Lougheed had managed not to mess that part up. How Mickey Mouse can you get?

And what about Pierre Elliott himself? He wires off a sharp reply to Lougheed that the premiers seem to have managed to turn constitutional reform upside down, but does he agree to meet with them again? Sure, he does, and so the nonsense will go on, ad nauseam, or until the country breaks up.

Is there no surcease, no escape? Personally, I think not as long as constitutional reform remains the sole responsibility of the governments of the day. The leaders of those governments simply do not have the knowledge, the personal expertise, the perspective and, in some cases, the commitments for the task. Many of them think the constitution is a bore too.

They are not, however, above using constitutional reform for political purposes, a practice which grossly confuses the issues, exaggerates the difficulties and brings the country dangerously closer to disintegration.

Consider, for example, Lougheed's

PETER LOUGHEED

hold-out view that "a constitutional amending formula should not permit an amendment that would take away rights, proprietary interests and jurisdiction from any province without the concurrence of that province." He is, of course, concerned about Alberta's natural resources, although he insists he is talking about "principles." But the hard fact is that neither the federal government or anyone else has proposed an amending formula which could possibly do what he fears. The man is either just plain dumb or a separatist, and probably both.

Or take Bourassa's decision that he needs a mandate for his view that Quebec cannot consent to patriation of the Constitution without prior agreement that the province must have expanded constitutional powers in certain areas, particularly culture, communications, appointments to the Supreme Court of Canada, and taxation. (Lougheed reported to Trudeau, incorrectly, that all provinces took a similar position; Ontario, Nova Scotia, and some others did not.)

Bourassa must know, even though he won't admit it publicly, that the consent of Quebec or any other province is not necessary to bring the constitution home from Britain. The federal government can act on its own if it wishes. He therefore constructed a political case, hoping to get concession to Quebec on jurisdictional powers in return for Quebec's "consent" to patriation.

Political Case

I would not for a moment deny that such concessions may be legitimate, but what can possibly be gained by pressing for them at this time, given the current political climate in Canada on the Quebec question? Bourassa is forcing a Hobson's choice on Ottawa: Trudeau is through in the rest of Canada if he is seen to "give in" to Quebec, but separatism is enhanced in Quebec if he does not. His remaining option is to forget about constitutional reform for the time being, which takes us back to square one.

Ironically, the central question is not all that difficult to solve. The constitution can be brought home as it stands but in that case it becomes very difficult to know how to amend it, since the current amending procedure — that is, enactments by the British Parliament — would no longer be available. Far better, then, to bring it home with a prior understanding or agreement on what amending system or formula is to be used when it gets here. That has been Trudeau's approach and he has consistently warned the premier that while he wants their concurrence on a formula, he doesn't need it and they should not frustrate matters by trying to rewrite the constitution before it is brought home. With few exceptions, however, the premiers have preferred to play politics with the issue, until it has now escalated into a very dangerous one indeed.

Condominiums

For the benefit of contemplating condominium purchasers and existing condominium owners would some developer or realtor give enlightenment on a situation that has me very much confused?

At present there is a plethora of condominium units on the market in Greater Victoria: the demand for them appears to be infinitely less than it was five or six years ago, the daily press advertises dozens and dozens for sale and yet new condominium complexes are being planned and built and advertised for sale continuously.

A matter that concerns me is how the basic and running costs of the unsold condominiums are being provided for. If a site is procured, and a building planned and erected, and the units sold in relatively short order, an expected amount of financing costs is reasonable and natural, and of course embodied in the cost to the individual purchaser. However, if a site is purchased, buildings — if any — thereon demolished, a new building designed, erected and equipped, and the individual suites sold, I am told that it may take a year or longer — probably considerably longer — before the last suites are sold. And it is a fact that the builder-developer is responsible for the monthly maintenance charges and taxes on all unsold suites until they are actually sold and title registered in the purchaser's name.

Surely all the costs must be added in to the sale price and possibly estimated on a very conservative — or perhaps I should say to cover all possible contingencies on a not ungenerous sale — basis so the all-important question that arises in my mind is: "Are present new condominium buyers being asked much higher prices than if the supply of such living accommodation was in a closer relationship to the actual demand? And why do the license granting authorities, either provincial or municipal, seem to condone this situation by abetting, or at least permitting, the erection of next to impossible to sell condominiums?" — John H. F. Turner, Victoria.

Northern Ireland

Perhaps if she had heard the following wry comment, Mary Holland of the London Observer would not have bothered writing her sophisticated article recently published in your paper (Victoria Times, Oct. 20): "If anyone tells you he understands the situation in Northern Ireland, you know immediately he has been badly misinformed." — Denis Barrit, Fellowship of Reconciliation, chairman in Ireland. — Mr. R. B. D. Terry, 524 Dallas Road.

Pensions

No Shangri La was a well-written letter, however, it left out many facts. The writer left out the fact that most federal civil servants do not make $16,000.00 or average 35 years service. Until a few years ago, no matter how much the cost of living went up, the most the pension could go up was 2 per cent. I've known at least one who after paying in for 25 years died the same day he retired. His wife, the widow, gets only 50 per cent of his pension.

Not so many years ago, a teacher with 38-40 years service turned in his pension and took a veteran burned out pension, which paid $24.00 a year more. Around 1966, the federal government has a pension surplus of $3 billion which was about enough to cover the public debt at the time. The sorry part was the money has been used up.

While the $3 billion was used to benefit the rest of Canada, the civil servants cannot benefit from Mincome, etc., but still pay towards it.

The federal government always told us, "We know what is good for you." However I too know that peace of mind when the cost of living and taxes go up all year and we only get the increase on January 31st is not good.

I always smile when the public boasts of the thousands they made, while I made hundreds, and now ridicule me because I get a civil servant pension which is all my own money, some of which I had to pay back at 12 per cent when it was most needed. — Shafted, But Used to It.

Leonard Peltier, Wounded Knee, S.D. — Indian cause celebre.

Equal Privileges

The Religious Society of Friends deplores the fact that a Sioux Indian and leading member of the American Indian movement, Leonard Peltier, who for about nine months has been awaiting an appeal against extradition to the U.S.A., suffers inhuman conditions in that he is:

a) kept in a 5'x8½' cell which receives no sunlight. b) not allowed outdoor exercise. c) not allowed social or recreational contact with other prisoners. d) shackled when he is taken from his cell; e) not allowed to practise his religious exercises with, or be visited by his Indian spiritual advisor.

Each of the above is an infraction of both the spirit and letter of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights. They are actions which go against our feelings for "natural justice." These conditions, which are worse than those usually inflicted upon convicted criminals, appear to contravene all Canadian laws regarding the holding of accused persons on remand.

Leonard Peltier has been accused by the F.B.I. of helping to kill two of its agents in South Dakota. On the 16th of July, 1976, at the trial of his two co-defendants, D. Butler and B. Robideau, in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the F.B.I. and its major witnesses were completely discredited and the two co-defendants acquitted.

This, plus the facts that Oakalla authorities have called L. Peltier "a model prisoner" and that people who know him state that "he is a gentle person" indicate that there can be no just purpose in holding him under such degrading conditions except to intimidate him and other Indians who will no longer timidly accept second class status. It would appear that B.C. officials are doing this under pressure from a fearfully powerful neighbour through its agency, the F.B.I., for we do not believe Canada normally would so treat a person awaiting extradition.

Therefore, we urge all fair-minded Canadians to write to the Attorney-General, G. Gardom, M.L.A., Victoria, B.C., asking him to order the Oakalla warden immediately to cease treating Leonard Peltier so inhumanly and to allow him the same privileges as granted accused persons held on remand. — R. C. Willis, Assistant Treasurer, The Religious Society of Friends, 1831 Fern Street.

Public Assistance

I note that the tourist industry is howling its head off after a bad tourist season in 1976. However as the industry prides itself on being "free or personal enterprise" one would think that they would appeal to their brethren in "free enterprise" but in view of this hard fact I was shocked to hear that they were appealing to the government for assistance in the form of a minister of tourism and a promotion campaign to be undertaken, you guessed it, by the government.

It is surely evident that "free enterprise" when it is prospering is the very first to complain of government interference but the minute they do not prosper they are at the taxpayers through i.e. public assistance. As the benefits of tourism assist the hotels, motels, restaurants and stores surely they should not expect hand-outs or assistance from the provincial government. Surely this could be construed as "socialism" and we certainly do not want that. — M. P. B. Wrixon, 1701 Cedar Hill Crossroad.

The Fox

For anyone who cut her or his teeth on the Reynard The Fox epic, the Trudeau posturings have a haunting familiarity. We stand to lose much more than our tail though, like poor Ysemgrim! Now watch, in the French version, "le fiefte trompeur trouver ruse nouvelle" (Le Roman de Renart). As all the animals clamour for justice, the sly fox distracts their attention with mention of buried treasure. Donning mendicant robes he pretends to start out on a holy pilgrimage to Rome to expiate his sins. Moved to tears, the animals forgive him and bless him. Alas and alack it is just one more ruse to deceive the credulous multitude... while he dines off the gullible hare, Coward!

Sounds familiar? For the next fascinating episode, visit the library or tune in to your local TV station for more vintage Pierre Elliott Trudeau. For a classic exercise in guile, hypocrisy and arrogance, this country will never see the likes of him again. — Frieda Kerfoot, 6244 Rodolph Road.

More Research

Just before Thanksgiving I heard Alderman John Hayes being interviewed by the CBC regarding the history of the Crystal Gardens — the alderman's "special baby." To my utter horror I heard him say with great confidence that it had been designed by Rattenbury. He was not the architect. My great-uncle Percy Leonard James was, and furthermore he won a prize the year it was completed from the Canadian Society of Architects for the approach he had to use to overcome the swamp on which it stands. P. L. James also designed the old CPR ticket office overlooking the inner harbor which has also been reported in your paper to have been built by Rattenbury.

Old Victorians are proud of their relations who have accomplished something and I have numerous old Victorian relations to be proud of, including P. L. James.

I won't vote for the alderman unless he researches things more thoroughly! — Mrs. Elizabeth Tusk, 1068 Bank Street.

Price Too High For Pay-TV

Unless there is a strong reaction by the public, Canada is about to get pay-TV, and that would be a disaster. It would do enormous damage to Canadian broadcasting and provide hardly any benefits. Are you willing to give up your citizenship just to see laws in your home a little sooner than you would on free TV?

Pay-TV is under the microscope right now because, last May, Communications Minister Jeanne Sauvé announced that it was "inevitable" and ordered the CRTC to receive briefs on how it should be set up. Oct. 1 was the deadline for those briefs, and I have a deskful. What they say is that the only people who really want pay-TV are those who hope to make fortunes from it. But it's "inevitable."

What would pay-TV give us that we don't get now? Under most of the proposals, only an earlier look at American movies (and they're not such blockbusters, either) plus a few scraps of Canadian cannon fodder for the nationalists.

What would this cost? You'd pay $8 to $10 a month for the programs, but there'd be some much higher costs. The most popular Canadian programs would disappear from your free TV screen and turn up on the pay-TV channel.

Regular Canadian TV stations would lose viewers, revenue and program quality, in that order. The weaker they got, the less Canadian the airwaves would be. And in Canada, they are already preponderantly American. In Toronto, I estimate 85 per cent of the viewing in the core of prime time is of American shows.

If you don't think that's damaging us, it shows how much they've got to you already. I'm not anti-American, I'm pro-Canadian, and dammit, I want to have a powerful share of TV shows made to show Canadian sensibilities.

That share is already far too weak. I know of only one pay-TV proposal that would do anything at all to strengthen it, and that one is slightly suspect because it comes from people who want to make a profit from it.

American movies and TV are certainly not the worst aspect of American culture — Detroit life is — and I certainly do not want to ban them. But to start pay-TV would be virtually to ban Canadian shows of quality or influence. What country is this, anyway?

Sure, to ban pay-TV would be a limitation of our freedom. But so is the law saying a grocer can't put rat poison in your bread. Some limitations can be justified.

Why did Mme. Sauvé say pay-TV was inevitable? Because one operator has started one system in Toronto, in such a way as to exempt it from control by the CRTC. As a result, licensed cable-TV operators threatened to start their own pay-TV, to compete.

The cable people, who already make fat profits (22 per cent), think pay-TV is the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, and won't give it up without a fight. I suspect they were happy to see the existing system start, to put the pressure on Ottawa to let them at that pot.

By BLAIK KIRBY

If Ottawa was to tell cable-TV companies they couldn't get into pay-TV, it would leave unlicensed firms free to damage the cable firms — but the damage wouldn't be all that great, and they are quite strong enough to stand it. It would only mean losing a few major strong developments.

There is not, as far as I can sense, any strong hunger for pay-TV, and why should there be? We already have more TV than any other city or country in the world.

Pay-TV would also injure the many for the benefit of a few. Instead of going free to the whole of the country, the top programs would go only to the few thousand fat cats who were within range of pay-TV — meaning, probably only the big cities — and could afford the extra $8 to $10 a month on top of what cable-TV already costs.

Do you think the next Canada Cup hockey tournament would turn up on free TV, if there was a pay-TV system willing to pay more for it?

That's why it would also be overwhelmingly American; Canada doesn't offer many blockbuster shows. And the money that the cable companies offer to put into Canadian movies would not be enough to make much difference.

Mme. Sauvé says the rules for pay-TV must prevent the siphoning of the top shows to the pay channel, but rules won't prevent it. There are always loopholes and people looking for them.

So far, most of the consideration of pay-TV has been of whether it should be part of cable-TV. The cable companies have the wires in the homes, so they have a head start. But in fact to adopt that system would not only be the most damaging to regular TV — because if you've paid for a whole channel you'll watch it a lot — but would also close the door on other systems which might be much better.

Global TV, for instance, has come up with a proposal that seems to solve many of the problems — all except the problem of whether it would be popular enough to make a profit.

Global smoothly proposes that it have a head start on its form of pay-TV as a national test. And letting pay-TV have a "test" start is like letting a camel put his head in your tent.

Global suggests a pay-TV system using all-Canadian programs which would cater to special-interest groups. A program of top-flight bridge for the bridge nuts, or sailing instructions for the yachting nuts, and so on.

It would be delivered by a combination of cable and over-the-air broadcasting, with each subscriber using a decoding machine to view the pay-TV channel. Because the programs would reach small but intensely interested audiences, they would not do much damage to regular TV and its audience size.

Until Mme. Sauvé spoke up in May, the CRTC had stood firm against pay-TV because it knew the damage that would be caused. It's an interesting question whether it will have the guts to do so again, now that it's ordered to consider not the if of pay-TV, but the how.

One thing it has to do, and I'm sure will do, is bring the whole question before a public hearing. The big question there will be: What real benefit would pay-TV give us? And isn't the cost to Canada far too high?

Divorce Up, Births Down in Russia

By PETER OSNOS
Washington Post

"The family is now going through very serious difficulties," Viktor Perevedentsev, a prominent Soviet demographer, concluded in a major study of family life and changing sexual attitudes published last year. He reported that every tenth child now born is illegitimate, that premarital and extramarital sex has soared, and that people are waiting longer to marry than they did before.

Perevedentsev and other experts, whose stature has been growing as the problems worsen, describe the situation as "complex and too little analysed." They attribute the phenomenon primarily to industrialisation and urbanisation — a relaxation of traditional village morality and stoicism — the same factors that have been found in Western countries.

But special features of Soviet life — housing shortages in which a financially successful couple, like the Ivanovs, still have to sleep in their living room or share two rooms with their parents, shortages of most consumer goods, primitive household aids (appliances, dry cleaning) and the decline of the traditional "babushka" (grandmother) babysitters — must all surely add to the strain.

"The chief means by which society can strengthen marriage," a researcher at the Soviet Academy of Sciences wrote recently, "is to lighten the women's household burden."

More than 80 per cent of Russian women hold jobs (about twice as many as in Western countries) but sociologists say that most have to spend an additional 30-40 hours a week on basic household duties. Washing, for instance, is nearly always done by hand, shopping for food is a daily chore.

Moreover, few husbands are as willing as Petya Ivanov (a pseudonym incidentally) to help out. Asked by a researcher last year to draw their father, nearly all of a group of 83 schoolchildren placed him on a chair staring at the television set, or on a sofa with a new sapper. Only two showed their fathers sweeping a carpet and one had him washing the floor.

A female sociologist estimated recently that women spend 10-12 hours a week cooking (men spend an hour to an hour and a half), about six hours a week shopping (men spend three hours), about six hours a week doing laundry (men spend 15 minutes) and so on.

In the case of Valya Ivanov, one solution to her sense of claustrophobia would be to get a job. That would mean putting the girls — ages two and a half and one — into a nursery as so many Russian women do. But leaving them there from nine in the morning until 5 p.m. goes against Valya's grain, counter to the principle of Dr. Benjamin Spock (widely read here in translation) that a mother's love is as essential to the spiritual health of a child as milk is for physical health.

That belief is apparently widespread. Three quarters of women questioned in a Leningrad survey said they would keep their children at home if there were someone there to look after them. Yet the majority of Russian working mothers do not even have Valya's choice of whether to keep a job, or not. They work — as 53.5 per cent told researchers in another Leningrad study — foremost to earn additional money for their families. Nor are their husbands especially happy about this.

Keeping families small therefore, is the only natural recourse. Hence, the drastically falling birthrates in urban areas of the Soviet Union:

"Before the children were born," said Petya one evening recently, "our lives were so much simpler. Even after the first was born, we seemed to be all right. We had a car and drove to Bulgaria for a holiday."

The difference in a mother's effort between one child and two is substantial. At the Soviet Centre for the Study of Population Problems, specialists reported that the birth of the first child increases a woman's household burden by 76 per cent, and that goes up "22 per cent plus" with a second child.

SAUVÉ... inevitable?

A Matter of Money

A magazine called Money was on the telephone. It spoke in a human voice. It requested an interview to enlighten the nation about how I handled my own particular money. Joseph Heller, Mike Nichols and Dr. Joyce Brothers had granted similar interviews, which I read with profound interest. Dr. Brothers and Mr. Nichols handled their money beautifully, but there was an insouciance in Mr. Heller's attitude which bespoke a larcinarian of doubtful competence.

I wanted the glory of advising on money in Money magazine, but there was a problem. The truth was that I couldn't discuss my secrets for handling money because I didn't have any money to handle. Whenever I felt the urge to handle money, money always seemed to be out of the house.

I would come down to breakfast in the morning, kiss the children, hug grandmother, stroke the cat and glance around for money, full of a craving to handle it with loving attention, and seeing that it was absent from our little circle, would feel saddened and hurt.

"I sure would like to see money," I might murmur, but I was invariably disappointed. Money was always out. It spent more time out than an adolescent daughter.

It was baffling. I had never thrown a temper tantrum at money, had never accused it of drinking too much or failing to wash the ring out of the bathtub, had never even raised my voice in anger to it for leaving fleas in the carpet. I had nothing against money. What did money have against me?

It was willing to lounge around Dr. Brother's house and prance happily about Mike Nichol's horse farm, and even to spend convivial evenings with Joseph Heller on Long Island. Obviously, I had made a mistake somewhere in our relationship. One evening, alone with a woman and a drained martini pitcher, I yielded to maudlin emotion. "Why are you crying?" the woman asked.

"I have done something dreadful," I said.

"Do you mean not washing the ring out of the bathtub this morning?" she asked.

"I have alienated money," I said. "Money never comes here anymore when it wants to be handled. Doesn't it know how much it means to me?"

"There, there," said the woman. "And after all I've done for money!" I cried. "I've taken it to Paris, to the Taj Mahal, to Bloomingdale's. I've stood in line for hours waiting for it in spite of the insolence of bank tellers who treated me like a potential forger. And what gratitude do I get in return?"

The woman had drifted to another room to ease an acute seizure of ennui. I pursued her. "Does money care one whit that I'm here with a heart breaking with a hunger to handle it? While its old friend sits here with nothing but a woman and an empty martini pitcher, money is lounging around with Joyce Brothers and Mike Nichols and probably telling them I never understood it."

Afterward, I regretted this outburst, for if money had been sneaking into the house on its way up to bed and had overheard, surely its feelings would have been so hurt that it would leave and never return. I knew for a fact that money was still spending certain nocturnal hours at our house. I had a desk full of non-negotiable paper to prove it. There were pay vouchers and bank deposit slips — the telltale sign of money's arrival — and an extraordinary mass of receipts from governments, industries and deadbeats around the earth — the telltale signs of money's departure.

Obviously, money was coming into the house. Just as obviously, it was sneaking out again before I could catch it. I concluded that it tipped in after midnight — following a convivial evening on Long Island with Joseph Heller, no doubt — slept a few hours and then sneaked out before dawn to avoid encountering me. I toyed with the notion of lurking on the stairs all night, hoping to catch it long enough to handle it for a minute or two. "Alha, money!" I would shout. "I'm doing the handling now! Off we go for a two-week vacation in Venice!"

My family fled against this strategy. They feared it would leave money so offended that it would never return again, even for a catnap. Instead, I have taken to leaving graham crackers and milk with a brief note on the stairs. It says, "Dear Money: If you stay for breakfast and let me handle you over the oatmeal, both of us can get our picture in Money magazine."

So far it hasn't even sipped the milk or nibbled a cracker.

SPEC Refused $25,000 Grant

For the first time in three years, the provincial government has rejected an application for funds from the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control.

The society had sought $25,000 to help fund a Save-the-Fraser program.

Environment Minister Jim Nielsen rejected the request, saying the government had adopted a policy of providing matching grants up to a certain limit.

In a letter to the society Oct. 18, Nielsen said he believes strongly that private organizations "are becoming too dependant upon government grants to continue their programs."

SPEC executive director Gary Gallon replied by saying the society was now applying for a matching grant of $16,000.

Gallon said in a news release it is a mystery that the government can find millions of dollars for a highway program but not $25,000 for SPEC.

"Surely the continued existence of a responsible environmental watchdog should be as important to the government and the people of B.C. as a highway program."

THREE MEN INJURED IN 15-FOOT FALL

Three men received minor injuries when they fell 15 feet at a job site in Colwood on Tuesday.

Colwood RCMP said Russell Schutz, 33, of 1253 Oscar, Paul Schman, 19, of 906 Lodge, and Barry Bittancourt, 25, of 214 Oswego, were knocked off a scaffold when some roof trusses collapsed.

They were putting trusses in place at a large lumber storage warehouse being built for Cubbon Lumber Co. on Nob Hill Road off the Old Island Highway.

Five other workmen were not hurt.

Cubbon manager William Wansborough said the mishap would not cause a serious delay in construction.

"We may lose a day," he said.

The $750,000 warehouse is scheduled to be completed in mid-November. Lumber stored at the company's Cook Street property will be moved to the Colwood site.

Food Research Cut 'a Threat'

Canada will fall behind other countries in food production if the federal government continues to restrict spending on crop research, Richard Stocks, manager of member services, B.C. Federation of Agriculture, warned Tuesday.

He said lack of research money in the past few years has reduced scientific staffs at six research stations in B.C.

"The staffs are being reduced by attrition. When a scientist retires, he is not replaced."

The Saanichton research station has lost three scientists and two technicians, he said. Other stations in Vancouver, Agassiz, Summerland, Kamloops and Prince George have also lost staff, one as many as eight over the past 10 years.

He said it was a mistake to close Beaver Lodge on the border of Alberta and British Columbia.

The research station was developing plants — strains of cereals and fruits — which can withstand cold weather.

Stocks also criticized the system of awarding research contracts to institutions and universities instead of turning the work over to research stations.

"Research is a continuing thing," he said. "It doesn't start here and end there — like a building contract."

"The decline in food production research should not be taken lightly. In 35 years we will have to double our food production to meet world needs."

Stocks said funding cutbacks in scientific research is resulting in the loss of Canadian scientists to other countries.

"We just can't afford to allow our research programs to decline."

Rowdy Behavior Not Ours—Inn

The management of the James Bay Inn, 270 Government, has written to Victoria city council claiming that much of the rowdy behavior attributed by neighbors to hotel patrons has nothing to do with that establishment.

Such conduct is "perhaps typical of this type of mixed-density area," says manager W. G. Wellburn in the letter to council.

"The most obvious are noisy automobiles, house parties and young people walking through the neighborhood in various moods of jubilation."

The letter, considered by council at its caucus meeting Tuesday, follows a recent appearance at City Hall of a delegation of angry James Bay residents, who complained that drunken, offensive behavior by the young clientele of the James Bay Inn cabaret had resulted in damage to property, disturbed nights and a generally intolerable situation.

But Wellburn's letter countered such allegations with the claim: "It is our policy to attract a well-behaved clientele to our cabaret by enforcing our own house rules which include dress restrictions, refusing service to intoxicated persons and refusing service to anyone who has misbehaved in the past (including creating noise outside the premises)."

In addition, he said, the hotel adheres strictly to all Liquor Administration Branch regulations, including those concerning minors, overcrowding and operating hours.

Council tabled the matter pending a report from the deputy police chief.

Vote Not Needed

LAKE COWICHAN — There won't be a municipal election here Nov. 20 because one of the aldermanic candidates withdrew Tuesday, leaving the other two elected by acclamation.

Incumbent Ted Johnson gave no reason for withdrawing after nomination closed Monday, leaving the seats uncontested for incumbent Ernest Burns and Mrs. Hazel Elves, who has run unsuccessfully on four other occasions.

TEEN GANG KILLS GIRL IN TRANCE

CAIRO (AP) — A teen-age gang claiming to be possessed by the devil killed a young girl who, while in a trance, allowed herself to be bound and strangled with a rope, police reported today.

Samia Mohammed, a 19-year-old student, was led by her killers to believe she would be resurrected after death to live underground as a genie with magical powers, police said. The girl was killed in an incense-laden ceremony at the gang's apartment in Maadi, a lavish Cairo suburb preferred by foreigners.

When police arrived, they found Samia's body wrapped in a rug while her killers, aged 17, 18 and 12, were waiting for a spirit to take the body underground.

TEACHERS CUT

PORT ALBERNI — Salaries of teachers here have been rolled back to 9.5 per cent for teaching staff and 9.7 for administrative staff from an average 12.8 per cent, the federal Anti-Inflation Board announced Tuesday.

Secretary-treasurer John Wright told the district school board that he and the teachers' association had been advised by phone from Ottawa.

The district has 3 days from the receipt of written notice from the board to effect the rollbacks, Wright said, but would start paying at the new levels, plus deducting the averages paid since January, effective with the October payroll.

Wright estimated that teaching staff would have to pay back from $200 to $600 of salary already received at the old levels, over the next six months. Administrative staff would be assessed even more.

Teachers who have left the employ of the board this year will be advised by registered mail as to what they owe, he said.

'See Who's Boss Now' Accused Gunman Quoted

"Look, you bastard. See who's boss now," a witness to a double shooting at HMC Dockyard recreation club remembered the accused saying just after he fired at his first victim.

"He was pointing the gun at Rick's head... the next thing was he shot the gun," Mrs. Janice Wormald, 3333 Harriet, told a B.C. Supreme Court jury Tuesday.

Mr. Justice K. E. Meredith presided at the second day of the trial for Joseph Halasz, 43, accused of attempted murder of Richard Cory Wallis Small, 32, and John Warren Ingham, 29, during a social evening at the club.

Four Crown witnesses told of seeing Halasz fire a pistol near the doorway of the club on Admirals Road, wounding Small and Ingham with single shots that struck them in the upper chest and neck.

Mrs. Wormald said she had been sitting with her husband, Ingham and several others at a table near where Small and Halasz were seated. She had watched the latter have angry words, and said Small appeared upset when he and Halasz began to leave the room.

"Rick reached the door first, put his hand on the doorknob to go outside to the parking lot and the next thing I see was Mr. Halasz with a gun in his hand," Mrs. Wormald said.

After the shooting, "Rick went up against the wall and went down."

A few seconds later, she said, "John Ingham got up, left the table and went to the reception area and Mr. Halasz turned around and shot John. He fell down then he got up and leaned against the wall, then he fell into a cloakroom."

Mrs. Wormald said at this point all the others present in the lounge "took off into the games room."

"I just stood there. I couldn't believe what I saw," said commissioner George R. Stanbury, club doorman, who asked a bartender to call police.

Walter Allison, 516 Admirals, was sitting with the Wormalds, Ingham and another couple about 15 feet from Small's table and noticed Small and Halasz have several conversations before they got up and started out of the building.

A blond man walked behind them as they headed for the door, Allison said. Ingham, in turn, followed the blond man.

The witness said he was sitting with his back to the doorway, and the next thing he noticed was Mrs. Wormald saying, "Wally, he's got a gun."

By then the first two had reached the commissioner's desk. "There was a shot and I saw Rick stagger and John wrestling with the accused," Allison said.

When Ingham was shot, he fell on his stomach and Allison said he heard Halasz say to him, "Now who's the tough guy?"

The accused pointed the gun at Ingham's head and kicked him in the legs as Allison moved closer.

But as he did, Halasz pointed the gun at him and said, "and you, you long-haired hippie," Allison said.

"I shouted, 'he's got a gun. Better get the hell out of here,'" The other club patrons backed into the adjoining games room area.

Allison then saw the blond man with his arms around the accused, gun still held in his hand, and Monica Small began attacking Halasz.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Brian Smith, Allison said he heard none of the conversation at Halasz's table and no discussion of Halasz at his own table. But he spoke to Small a couple of times during the evening and although Small did not mention Halasz, Allison said he assumed they were arguing.

"It looked like Small was angered about something," Allison said.

Ingham said he heard loud words between Small, his wife and Halasz, who were engaged in an argument, substance of which he did not know. He said he saw Small, Halasz and the blond man going out and when they were just past the reception desk "somebody mentioned a gun."

"I was watching and I saw a gun and I started to go out. I yelled at Rick Small, he looked at me and Joe Halasz shot him. I tried to get the gun and he shot me."

Ingham said he fell back against the wall trying to get out of Halasz' way "because he was still coming at me."

Ingham fell and "he put the boots to me. I curled up trying to protect myself," but he received several blows to the legs and body — "a good half-dozen before I passed out, I guess."

While the accused was holding the gun to Ingham's head he told the wounded man something like, "see who the tough guy is now," the witness said.

Earlier, Ingham said, he had told the accused to shut up and mind his own business because he had been casting dirty looks and making remarks about the people at Ingham's table.

When Small, Halasz and the blond man went toward the door, Ingham went too in order to make sure it was a fair fight, he said.

At the time he did not know what trouble there was between Halasz and Small. Ingham said he was in hospital eight or nine days being treated for a bullet wound. The bullet passed through his chest and emerged from his back about six inches below the left shoulder.

Stanbury said he had received a complaint during the evening from Mrs. Halasz about someone interfering at her table. When he went around to inquire he found things quiet and returned to his desk.

About 11 p.m. he said he had been aware of loud voices arguing without being able to tell what was being said. He said he saw Small standing up inviting Halasz to go outside and watched them start to leave followed by a man he found later to be Ingham.

As they reached the door he

PT. ANGELES WATER UNSAFE

FORT ANGELES (AP) — A U.S. Superior Court advisory jury has found that this city's water supply is a health hazard that probably will cause substantial injury.

The jury voted 10 to 2 for that conclusion after a six-day trial on a state request for an injunction requiring the city to build a water filtration facility.

Visiting Judge Terence Haney of Kitsap County now must decide whether to issue the order.

The department of social and health services wants

Port Angeles to build either of two facilities proposed in a report by a consultant. One is a filtration plant to clean water taken from Morse Creek. It would cost $2.98 million. The other is a Ranney sub-surface collector costing $2.58 million to extract naturally filtered water from beneath the Elwha River. The jury found that the city's water supply is a public health hazard that probably will cause substantial injury. No unanimous verdict was required because the trial is a civil matter. The verdict is not binding on the judge.

Big Money Aids Races In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big political money, driven from the presidential election by post-Watergate reforms, is rushing in unprecedented volume into congressional races with the potential for greater impact than ever.

The Federal Election Commission says there are at least 125 political committees which have given as much as $50,000 each. With the figures for some committees in the $1 million range, the overall total and its clout is massive.

Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby, computed that as of Sept. 1 special interest groups from big labor to big business had reported contributions totalling more than $10 million.

That is twice the amount given by special interest groups to congressional candidates during the same campaign period two years ago. Dairy farmers, who had difficulty placing their money in 1974 in the wake of the milk fund scandal, have tripled their donations so far this year.

Figures coming in from October filings indicate that the final tally for the 1976 campaigns may run 50 per cent or more above the September level.

FEC reports show that the American Medical Association, for example, had given $904,840 to Senate and House candidates as of Oct. 1, $350,000 of it in the 30 days since the September report.

"The record certainly appears to show that not only is special interest money coming in in record amounts but that it is focused on legislative and political goals," said Fred Wertheimer, vice-president of Common Cause.

Ford Handed Playboy Interview Runaround

Times News Services
WASHINGTON — Although the White House once expressed interest in setting up a Playboy interview for President Ford, presidential aides say Ford never really intended to appear in the magazine and that Playboy executives were given the run-around.

Ford has been trying to stifle Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter to the wall for granting an interview to Playboy, but executives of the Chicago-based magazine say Ford at one time was eager for the magazine to interview him.

Some Republicans have been hoping to use Carter's Playboy interview against him.

Playboy executives, obviously irritated at Republican barbs being thrown at the magazine, issued a statement Tuesday saying the White House had first suggested that the publication do a Ford interview.

Barry Golson, Playboy assistant managing editor, said the White House offered an interview with Ford after the satirical article, I Am Jerry's Brain, was published in the September, 1974, issue.

"The White House press office called and said the president had read the article and invited the writer to spend a few days at the White House to see how the real Jerry Ford's brain works," Golson said.

But he said the writer had other assignments and did not accept.

Playboy said a later effort to set up a brief interview with Ford was unsuccessful because of scheduling conflicts and that the White House was co-operative in that effort.

But Ford's spokesman, Ron Nessen, said Playboy was being given the run-around and that Ford never had any intention of letting Playboy writers ask him any questions.

Ford and Carter circled Chicago Tuesday, like a couple of ringwise fighters, stalking the suburban vote.

Tapes Used to Bare Bribes

Washington Post
WASHINGTON — "Highly sensitive" intelligence reports — apparently including tape recordings of meetings inside the Blue House presidential mansion in Seoul — form the basis of allegations that South Korean President Park Chung Hee personally ordered that U.S. congressmen be bribed with cash, gifts and campaign contributions, according to informed federal sources.

According to both U.S. justice and state departments sources, the intelligence reports known to federal investigators probing widespread corruption of U.S. congressmen and other officials by South Korean agents are based on electronic eavesdropping, wiretaps, intercepts of other communications and double agents.

One well-informed source said some intelligence reports appeared to be based on tape recordings of discussions Park Chung Hee had in the South Korean Blue House with Washington-based South Korean businessman Tongsun Park and South Korean Central Intelligence Agency (KCIA) agents.

In those discussions, according to sources familiar with the intelligence reports, Park Chung Hee directed Tongsun Park to use money generated from his commissions on U.S. sales of rice to South Korea to give cash, jewelry, furniture, vacations and campaign contributions to U.S. congressmen.

Wednesday, Lin Bang Hyun, the official spokesman for President Park Chung Hee, issued a statement denying involvement by the South Korean president or government in the alleged influence-peddling here.

"The government of the Republic of Korea has no part whatsoever in the alleged lobbying activities with the United States government and the Congress by Tongsun Park," Lin said in his statement.

"Tongsun Park has never been employed by the Korean government nor does he have anything to do with President Park Chung Hee," Lin said. "It is totally groundless that Tongsun Park has engaged in lobbyist activities under orders from President Park as reported by some American newspapers."

However, one U.S. state department source with close knowledge of the U.S. intelligence reports from inside the South Korean government has said "there is no question — absolutely none — that Park Chung Hee was personally involved. He directed the damn thing."

Sources familiar with the intelligence data said it has come from such a variety of sources, each of which seems to confirm the other on major points of the influence-peddling effort here, that federal investigators no longer doubt that such a conspiracy exists.

The Washington Post has reported that at least 22 congressmen are under investigation for allegedly having received money or gifts from South Korean agents in exchange for legislative actions favoring South Korea.

GOVERNOR DEFENDS BRIBES BY BUSINESS

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Gov. Edwin Edwards said Tuesday that U.S. businessmen should be allowed to do whatever is necessary to compete with other nations, including paying bribes to foreign government officials.

Edwards, responding to a question, said the inhibiting influence of the news media and the federal government against such bribes was "one of the most reprehensible things the press and the national government has done."

"What they have done is cheated American businessmen of the opportunity of doing business in foreign countries and deprived the American worker of the right to make and sell American products — simply because somebody came up with super moralistic attitudes that you shouldn't be making payments to people in foreign governments."

He said U.S. businessmen should be allowed to do whatever is necessary to compete equally with other nations.

Asked if that meant they should be allowed to pay bribes, Edwards replied, "absolutely. Pay bribes."

"Even if it causes internal problems such as in Japan?" He was asked.

"That's Japan's problem," Edwards said.

The exchange occurred during an impromptu news conference in a guest sitting room of the governor's mansion. Edwards had taken reporters there to see a black lacquer table with mother-of-pearl inlay, a $900 gift of South Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

A card under a glass top on the table said it was a gift from Park, who was said by a Washington newspaper to have been involved in bribing congressmen and U.S. officials.

Edwards said Park gave the table to him as a "congratulatory gift" after he was elected to his first term as governor.

Edwards also defended his wife's acceptance of a gift of $10,000 from Park, saying it had no effect on his conduct, and what she did with it was "totally irrelevant."

"It's a gift made to her by a friend. It's a private matter. She sees no reason, nor do I, to comment further on it," Edwards said.

MIKA, RYAN FIRE BACK AT BOURQUE

It's 'Scurrilous Innuendo'

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

A candidate for Saanich council in the Nov. 20 municipal elections has accused acting mayor Joe Bourque of injecting partisan politics into the election.

John Mika, a researcher for the New Democratic Party, made the charge in light of Bourque's expressed concern that individuals sponsored by labor and political groups are running for office.

Bourque is a member of the Social Credit party.

His concerns centred around Mika, an executive assistant in the former NDP government, and Larry Ryan, secretary of the Victoria Labor Council, who is running for one of four aldermanic seats in Victoria.

In a letter to the Times, Mika stressed he is non-partisan candidate and Ryan in an interview said he is out to represent the whole community not just labor.

Bourque said today his concerns are directed to those individuals who would be sponsored by one interest group and who would be out to represent that interest group rather than the public as a whole.

He said councils, up until now, have been unsullied by strictly partisan politics, but the situation has "become somewhat murky" with the arrival of Mika and Ryan on the scene.

However, he added, he has no proof these individuals are out to represent only one interest group and only their actions, if they are elected, will determine whether that is the case.

Bourque, who admitted he is a card-carrying member of the Social Credit party, said he is not sponsored by the party or in any way supported by it in his actions as a Saanich alderman.

"You have to have individuals from all walks of life (on council) as long as they are not sponsored by interest groups," he said.

Mika said in his letter he has lived in Saanich under reeves and mayors who have been or are MLAs and MPs.

"Like these gentlemen did, without fear of scurrilous partisan innuendo, now that I hope to serve my community I seek the help and welcome the support of all Saanich residents who share my concerns about Saanich regardless of their personal provincial or federal politics."

Unlike the acting mayor, I am sure most Saanich residents consider our community a family homeground, not an ideological battlefield. Certainly I do."

Ryan said Bourque seems to represent a peculiar point of view which fails to see the importance of having broadly-based government.

The labor leader said he shares Bourque's concerns should certain interest groups attempt to dominate municipal councils.

"All councils should pledge themselves to the public good," he said. "The public interest is paramount."

He said it is ironic that the complaint should come from Saanich which suffered only 10 years ago from a bad case of voter apathy. In 1966 only 12 per cent of the eligible voters turned out, he said.

Bourque should be welcoming participation by community groups, he said.

Frank Carson, another candidate for Victoria council, said in an interview he cannot get too excited about Bourque's concerns.

Carson, who ran unsuccessfully in Oak Bay for the Socialists in the 1976 provincial election, said, for one thing, councils don't operate on an adversarial system.

Although admitting he has no experience as an alderman, he said the subjects councils deal with, such as sewers, zoning, police and fire protection, are not politically sensitive.

Carson said he would not like to see partisan politics take over councils but at this juncture does not see any concerted drive by any interest group to do that.

Victoria Ald. Bob Ellis, who is seeking re-election in this year's election, said the important thing about any candidate for municipal office is not his interest group but his competency.

"If he supports a labor philosophy but is a credible candidate, then good luck," he said.

Ellis, who sought the nomination as the Victoria candidate for the Socialists in the Dec. 11 provincial election, said there is no government and opposition on city council.

Recycled Bawlf Coughed Up

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

The estimated cost had risen more than $1 million and it's now called a botanical garden, not an arboretum, but otherwise the Crystal Garden restoration proposal presented to Victoria city council Tuesday was regurgitated Sam Bawlf.

In virtually all respects the report prepared by Ald. John Hayes appeared to be a recycled version of the concept first promoted by ex-alderman Bawlf nearly two years ago.

Then, the price tag on renovation was around $1.5 million. Now it's estimated at about $2.7 million, but Mayor Mike Young seemed to be skeptical even about that figure.

Hayes pointed out that council could either demolish the Crystal Garden, at a cost which could run as high as $300,000, leave the derelict building the way it is, which really amounts to eventual demolition, or preserve it.

Of the possible uses if it were preserved — conference centre, arts centre, a home for a new central library or botanical garden — he said the last makes the most sense. "As the building is basically a huge greenhouse the ideal use for it is as a botanical garden."

Hayes asked council for a firm commitment to save the building, use it for that purpose and earmark $500,000 from the city's land sale fund. The financing pledge, he said, would be contingent on obtaining the bulk of the remaining sum needed from the provincial and federal governments.

He said Bawlf had promised to "use his very best efforts" to extract financing from the B.C. government, although there was no truth to an earlier news report that the government had already pledged $2 million to the project.

At the federal level possible funding sources would include Heritage Canada and Ottawa's winter works program, and Hayes expressed confidence that Victoria citizens would also be prepared to support a fund-raising drive for restoration.

Ald. Murray Glasgow, who like Hayes is seeking re-election next month, said: "It seems to me we haven't come anywhere since January, 1975 (when Bawlf's scheme was first presented)."

He asked Hayes to "identify anything that is new" in his report.

Council tabled the matter for one week, to give aldermen a chance to study Hayes' proposal.

ICBC Called Disgrace

Saanich will ask the provincial government to clean up its Insurance Corporation of B.C. property on Douglas Street.

Ald. Roy Wootton told Tuesday's meeting of the lands, planning and housing committee the ICBC property is "a disgrace to the whole area, not only the municipality, but to the whole capital region."

Wootton said government officials should be asked to attend a forthcoming meeting of all owners, agents and option-holders in the area bounded by Boleskine, Whittier, Duplin and Douglas.

The meeting will plan development of the area as an industrial-warehousing site.

Wootton said Canadian National representatives should also be present to discuss the future of the track that runs through the area.

The alderman said it is essential that properties be managed in a way to make industrial development acceptable to residents.

Municipal planner Gil Laurensen said his department had produced a plan for the entire area six or seven years ago which provides for an interior street system and "suitable light industrial warehouse lots". To protect residents living on Whittier, abutting the industrial site, Laurensen said it was essential a 30-foot buffer landscaped strip be demanded.

The committee endorsed Laurensen's recommendations to approve the plan and the street layout, and work for the upgrading of the Whittier buffer strip.

The cost of improvements will be discussed at the meeting with the property owners.

Saanich's parks department will submit estimates for closing Burns Avenue from Boleskine to Leach so that access to nearby properties will be restricted to the interior street system.

On Laurensen's recommendation, the aldermen agreed that rezoning applications for property in the area be dealt with using the principles laid down in the department's official plan.

Nine people will improve and construct housing on the Tsawout Indian Band reserve on a grant of $45,900.

In North Saanich, four people will be hired to upgrade recreation and other facilities on a grant of $20,400.

Work will start this fall and will carry through the winter. All projects must be completed no later than July 2.

10 LIP Projects Make 60 Jobs

Grants totalling $254,186 under the Local Initiatives Program will create 60 jobs in 10 projects in the Esquimalt-Saanich area, Canada Manpower regional manager Stan Purdy said today.

The grants include $10,710 to improve recreation facilities at the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for the Handicapped. The money will employ three people for 21 weeks.

A grant of $22,440 will employ five people to provide activities for the handicapped at Arbutus Crafts Association.

A grant of $26,520 will employ six people to upgrade recreation and other facilities at Lochside Park, upgrade the foreshore at Patricia Bay and construct access ramps for the handicapped at the Capital Regional District hall.

A transportation service for the elderly at Saanich Peninsula Hospital will be carried out by two people for 30 weeks on a grant of $10,136.

Seven people will be employed to assist with construction of a fire hall and recreation centre at Willis Point on a grant of $23,750.

Ten people will be employed to improve the Piers Island water reservoir on a $28,130 grant.

A grant of $33,680 will employ eight people to improve flood control measures at Hillston Creek.

A grant of $26,520 will enable Saanich municipality to employ six people to improve and restore streams and other watercourses in the area.

Nine people will improve and construct housing on the Tsawout Indian Band reserve on a grant of $45,900.

In North Saanich, four people will be hired to upgrade recreation and other facilities on a grant of $20,400.

Work will start this fall and will carry through the winter. All projects must be completed no later than July 2.

SPRINGRIDGE SPOTLIGHT ON PARKS

Nearly half the $1 million in Neighborhood Improvement Program funds allocated to the city's Springridge area will be spent on parks and traffic improvement projects, if city council endorses a proposal by NIP co-ordinator Frank Byrne.

The proposal, submitted to council's caucus meeting Tuesday with the full backing of the area's NIP committee, envisages basic expenditure of $290,000 on parks and traffic upgrading, plus another $200,000 when this money becomes available from "recycled" housing funds.

Although the basic allocation for housing under the program is $350,000, all but $50,000 of this sum will be progressively recovered and re-allocated to other needs as mortgage funds are released by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Housing development will be co-ordinated by the Fernwood Community Non-Profit Housing Society, now being formed as an offshoot of the NIP committee's housing section.

The report submitted to council Tuesday and tabled for one week estimated that the proposed method of recycling housing cash would create "an additional $900,000 in low-income housing mortgages" over a three-year period.

Under the parks heading, major expenditure items will include improvements to existing parks, creation of new mini-parks through street closures and provision of tennis courts.

The street closures planned are in response to residents' concern for "safer, quieter streets," the report said.

Proposed expenditure on social and recreational facilities totals $300,000, one-third of which will be money recovered from housing funds.

These Students Want to Help . . . Give Them a Chance

Come on all you Oak Bay Oldies!

When youngsters are in a charitable mood, at least give them a chance to give.

If you don't get cracking and think up a few chores in a hurry, it looks as though most of the Glenlyon School senior students are going to spend their planned "community service afternoon" twiddling their thumbs on Friday.

Not only would that be a hell of a waste of good labor, but the spirit that goes with giving would be lost.

The service afternoon, being tried for the first time this year by Glenlyon students, was the brainchild of principal Hamish Simpson. Every Halloween, the Glenlyon juniors, along with many public elementary school students, have collected for UNICEF and other charities while trick or treating. This year, Simpson felt it would be a good thing to have the senior boys involved in doing something for the community, as well.

Aiming their operation at the elderly who need help and specifically in the same community as the school, the boys put up a poster in the Oak Bay Senior Citizens Centre last week.

"Glenlyon Service Afternoon on Friday, Oct. 29," the poster announced. "Inexpensive labor, 50 cents per hour per student, minimum one hour. Call the school 592-2401 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Oak Bay area preferred. All proceeds to charity."

Sounds great to me. But apparently it doesn't to too many Oak Bay people. Either that, or you're all too damned independent! You're all too used to doing those odd jobs yourselves.

There are 65 boys in grades 8, 9 and 10, aged between 13 and 15, who are hoping to work a minimum of two hours each on Friday afternoon. That's at least 120 to 130 hours of work, if everyone is going to get something to do.

max low

So far, the boys have only 25 hours booked and no one can understand the lack of support.

Lois Powell, who recently took over as program co-ordinator at the Oak Bay Senior Citizens Centre, is bewildered.

"I'm really surprised there hasn't been more response than that," she says. "We featured it prominently on the front page of our newsletter which goes out to our 1,900 members and we expected there would be a lot of people who would be glad of some help. Frankly, I would have thought that it would have gone the other way . . . and the boys would have had more calls than they could handle."

The boys are bewildered, too, and a little disappointed. Led by a committee of five from Grade 10 — the school's head boy Shawn Costello, Peter Barlow, David Nelles, Ross Meredith and Derek Wilkinson — the students have planned it all themselves. Using a map of Oak Bay and a giant list that was supposed to contain the names and addresses of all the clients, but right now is dominated by the boys' own names, they have laid it out like a military manoeuvre.

"Labor is the weapon they will use, but right now they wait for the phone to ring and for the enemy to rear its lovely head."

So far, that phone has only rung 15 times bringing a total of 25 hours of work. Mainly they were calls for help cutting lawns, raking leaves, cleaning windows, doing shopping or vacuuming the house. But there was one woman who was delighted because she has been waiting a long time for help to move some furniture. Now she will get that help.

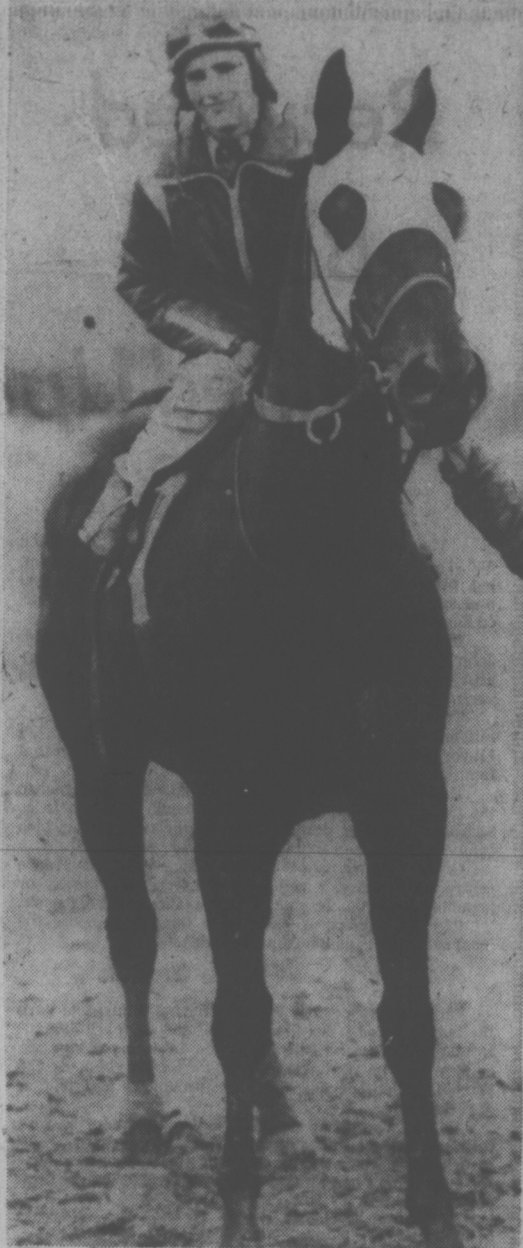

"This is not a fund-raising venture," explains science master Graham Hunter. "But we felt if it was free labor, it could be abused. And so we decided to make a nominal charge and to give all the proceeds to the United Way Appeal fund."

"The boys are disappointed, though . . . they want to do this."

Apprentice Dale Hot with Reins

Hottest jockey at Sandown Park at the thoroughbred meeting of the Capital City Turf Club has been 17-year-old apprentice rider Dale Manning.

Manning, who, in the words of racing secretary Aubrey Davies, "just showed up at Exhibition Park" earlier this year from Turf Paradise at Phoenix, is leading all hard-boots, with 13 wins, eight seconds and six thirds from 46 rides in the first six days of the 16-day meeting. Manning is originally from Ada, Minnesota.

Close on his heels is another apprentice rider, 18-year-old Randy Dailey of Charleston, Illinois. One of three Daileys at Sandown, Jim Sr. and Jim Jr. being the others in the family of three, Randy has 11 winners, five seconds and four thirds from 41 mounts. He started his riding career at Exhibition Park this season. Other leading riders at Sandown are Jim Dailey Jr. with five and Mike Chabara and Gerry Brownell each with four. Jim Arnold, defending champion Garth Carter and Jesus Munoz each have three.

Monarchs, Blades Show Impressive Strength

Times News Services

Winnipeg Monarchs shook off a three-game losing streak as they overpowered Regina Pats 6-0 with a blistering third-period attack in one of two games in the Western Canada Hockey League Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, Saskatoon Blades put on an equally impressive show of strength as they handed Lethbridge Broncos their second loss of the season by a score of 8-3.

The Monarchs got off to a 1-0 lead before a sparse home-town crowd of 929 fans when Tom Boulton popped in a shot early in the first period and goaltender Tim Steele kept the Pats' offense at bay.

After a scoreless second period, Winnipeg exploded with five goals in the final period. Dave Steckler and Dave Isherwood each scored twice on power plays, while Dave Morrison had the other goal.

Monarchs outshot the Pats 44-25 and took three of 12 minor penalties.

In Saskatoon, Blades outshot Broncos 59-23 and took advantage of penalties to score three goals within a span of 36 seconds late in the second period.

Condition of Morris 'Stable But Guarded'

EDMONTON (CP) — Sophomore winger Peter Morris of Edmonton was in "stable but guarded condition" Tuesday as he continued to recover from a fracture at the base of his skull suffered Sunday in a World Hockey Association game against Phoenix Roadrunners.

Dr. Robert Lefebvre, one of two Oilers doctors on the scene when Morris struck his head on the ice following a first-period collision with Phoenix forward Seppo Repo, said Morris has no brain damage.

The first neurological examination was performed Sunday and Morris spent Monday under heavy sedation.

Dr. Lefebvre said it is too early to tell when Morris will be released from hospital "because of the delicate area of the fracture."

The doctor said the first thing Morris said after he regained consciousness was: "Did we win the game?"

The Oilers lost the game 5-3.

Then he asked if he could accompany the Oilers to Houston on their first road trip of the season. General manager-coach Bep Guidolin said Morris will be out of action "a minimum of eight weeks."

Ken Baird, a room-mate of Morris until Baird was re-up by Calgary Cowboys, said he did not know why Morris elected not to wear his helmet.

He wore the helmet as a junior with Victoria Cougars and most of last season as an Oilers rookie.

CANADA'S OLYMPIC HANGUP HITS OSHAWA TOURNAMENT PLAN

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — The City of Oshawa has been forced to withdraw its bid for the world men's softball tournament in 1978 because of current Canadian political differences with the rest of the world, an event organizer said Tuesday.

Bruce McArthur, a city alderman and co-chairman of the event, said the local organizers have been caught in a "squeeze play."

McArthur said the Taiwan problem encountered at the 1976 Olympics and the federal government's stand on South Africa may have caused the International Softball Federation to delay its confirmation to the Oshawa organizers.

"It's going to take a decade before Canada, not only in softball but in other sports, will be accepted internationally because of the Olympic hangover."

At the Montreal Olympics, the Canadian government refused to allow athletes from Taiwan to compete under the flag of the Republic of China. The government's decision was criticized by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and other governments, including the United States.

McArthur said a second factor is that Houston, Tex., is planning to hold a sports spectacle for non-Olympic events in 1978 and softball is part of the plans.

"The president of the International Softball Federation, which is American-run and administered, is from Texas," said McArthur. "And the problems Canada has had at the Olympics and with the world women's softball championships at Calgary, gave the federation the opening it needed."

"It's a real squeeze play. They are able to renege on our agreement and clear the way for the Houston tournament by not giving us confirmation that the tournament will be held here in 1978 and it forces us to withdraw."

Joe Patterson, manager of Victoria Bate, co-holders of the world's men's championship said this tournament wouldn't have official status as the next world's championship is scheduled for Seattle in 1980 and is held only once every four years. Victoria Bate, the United States and New Zealand share the world title which was decided in New Zealand in February of this year.

Cloutier Ties WHA Mark With Five-Goal Outburst

By The Canadian Press

Real Cloutier doesn't appear to miss the training he would have received in his last couple of years of junior hockey.

The 20-year-old right winger, in his third professional season with Quebec Nordiques after being signed as an under-age junior, tied a World Hockey Association record with five goals Tuesday night as the Nordiques whipped Phoenix Roadrunners 11-3.

In other games, Minnesota Fighting Saints downed San Diego Mariners 3-1, Cincinnati Stingers nipped New England Whalers 1-0, Houston Aeros dumped Edmonton Oilers 3-1 and Calgary Cowboys beat Birmingham Bulls 9-3.

Cloutier, whose goals Tuesday pushed his season total to 14, turned in the seventh five-goal performance in WHA history.

tory, Ron Ward has two five-goal games, while other players sharing the distinction are Ron Clime, Andre Hise, Vasek Nedomansky and Wayne Connelly.

For a budding star, however, Cloutier maintained a modest attitude toward his scoring feats.

"Christian Bordeleau is really the heart of our line," he said of the centre who garnered four assists skating between Cloutier and left winger Marc Tardif. "Christian doesn't get much mention in print, but he's what makes us click."

Steve Sutherland and Serge Bernier had two goals each against Phoenix, netminder Gary Kurt, who faced 42 shots, while Curt Brackenbury and Tardif contributed singles to the Nordiques' all-time high of 11 goals in a game.

Robbie Florek, Ron Huston and Bob Liddington replied for the Roadrunners, who remained tied with Winnipeg Jets atop the West Division.

Quebec boasts an 8-1 record for 15 points, best in the league, and leads the East Division.

Ward had to settle for a single goal in Minnesota's victory over San Diego at St. Paul, but it was the winner, a short-handed effort that gave the Saints a 2-0 lead at 15:30 of the second period.

Pat Westrum and Al McDonough had Minnesota's other goals, while Norm Ferguson scored for the Mariners.

MURDOCH SETS DIZZY PACE FOR RANGERS

By The Canadian Press

Don Murdoch was junior hockey's highest goal scorer last season and the New York Rangers rookie hasn't slowed down now that he's in the National Hockey League.

Murdoch scored 88 goals and 77 assists for Medicine Hat Tigers of the Western Canada Hockey League last season, more goals than any other junior player in Canada or the United States.

On Tuesday night, Murdoch, 20, scored his 10th and 11th goals of the season—tops in the NHL—to lead the Rangers to a 5-2 win over Cleveland Barons.

He scored two goals in his first NHL game, one in his second and a club-record five goals in his fourth. He scored the winning goal in three of the Rangers' first four victories of the season.

His five-goal game against Minnesota North Stars was something no other Ranger had done in the club's 51-year history, and something only one other rookie—Howie Meeker—previously had accomplished.

Meeker was 23 when he scored five goals on Jan. 3, 1947, midway through the season. He won the Calder trophy for the rookie of the year, an award Murdoch is aiming for.

In other games Tuesday night, St. Louis Blues downed Vancouver Canucks 5-2 and Los Angeles Kings edged Detroit Red Wings 3-2.

Red Berenson scored two goals and added an assist and linemate Ted Irvine scored one goal and two assists as the Blues defeated Vancouver.

Chris Oddleifson, with his third and fourth goals of the season, scored the Canucks goals.

Garry Unger's power-play goal, his sixth of the season, with 2:36 remaining in the second period gave the Blues a 3-2 lead after Irvine and Berenson had moved St. Louis into a 2-2 tie.

Berenson scored his second goal of the game 42 seconds into the third period for a 4-2 St. Louis lead, and Larry Patey's breakaway goal midway through the period completed the scoring.

A 'Stupid Way to Raise Money'

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Tuesday the recent Canada Cup hockey tournament was a "stupid way to raise money."

"We drain the community by taking millions out of people's pockets to pay overseas teams to come here, and very little of that money ever finds its way back into hockey in North America," Campbell said.

Canada won the September tournament in a final series against Czechoslovakia after a round-robin schedule that included national teams from the Soviet Union, Sweden, Finland and the United States.

After expenses were paid, 50 per cent of the take went to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and Hockey Canada, while the other 50 per cent went to the pension funds of the NHL and World Hockey Association players' associations. The NHL association received 29 shares and the WHA organization two.

There was $465,000 in prize money, with $100,000 going to the first-place team.

Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, the NHL Players' Association mentor who organized the tournament, had estimated expenses of $3 million to pay for teams' travel, meals, rink rental, training camps, insurance and prize money. He also estimated gross revenue of $7 million, including $5 million from television rights.

"The incredible thing is that the NHL Players' Association

NOBODY'S WINNING in this battle for ball between Philadelphia's George McGinnis (30) and Rich Kelley of New Orleans, but McGinnis was eventual winner in National Basketball Association game. He scored 37 points as 76ers beat Jazz 111-101.

They Came to See Dr. J, But George Carved Jazz

By The Associated Press

The crowd came to see Dr. J, but it was George McGinnis who operated on New Orleans Jazz.

Dr. J—Julius Erving of Philadelphia 76ers—was held to 10 points but McGinnis scored 37 as the 76ers beat the Jazz 111-101 Tuesday night at New Orleans before a record crowd of 27,383.

Elsewhere in the NBA, New York Knicks beat Buffalo Braves 118-104, Chicago Bulls edged Milwaukee Bucks 90-88, Atlanta Hawks stopped San Antonio Spurs 122-114, Indiana Pacers whipped Seattle SuperSonics 120-90, Kansas City Kings defeated Los Angeles Lakers 117-115 in overtime and Portland Trail Blazers beat Golden State Warriors 110-96.

The big crowd attraction in New Orleans Tuesday night was Erving, whose $500,000 annual salary makes him the highest paid player in pro basketball. Erving was acquired recently by Philadelphia from New York Nets after missing the entire training camp and exhibition seasons.

The Jazz, led by Pete Maravich with 28 points and Aaron James with 22, led by four points in the early minutes. But with three minutes left in the first quarter, Philadelphia took control and held on.

The Knicks raised their record to 3-0 as Earl Monroe scored 29 points and Spencer Haywood had 23 points and 15 rebounds against the Braves, who were without three-time scoring champion Bob Mc-Adoo, sidelined with a lower back injury. Chicago saw a 15-point halftime bulge cut to one but hung on to win as John Laskowski hit a long jumper and Artis Gilmore added a stuff shot in the final 10 minutes. It was the fourth loss for winless Milwaukee.

BAKER'S JOB PRIORITY TAKING HIM TO REGINA

VANCOUVER (CP) — All-star defensive end Bill Baker is moving back to Regina in January, raising doubts he might be in uniform for the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League next season.

Baker, named the club's most outstanding player, top Canadian and top defensive player in recent CFL awards balloting, has received a promotion to the head office of the steel and pipe company he works for.

"I'll be 32 in April and I've got to look to the future," Baker said. "There is still a possibility of playing here but at the moment I'm only thinking about Saturday's game (against Toronto Argonauts)."

Baker's contract expires next June but he is under option to the Lions for the 1978 season.

"I knew about this (transfer) possibility before the season started and I let the team know at that time," Baker said.

Lions general manager Bobby Ackles said the club would have to assess the situation at the end of the year.

"I'm sure the Saskatchewan Roughriders are aware of it but we haven't talked to them about it. One thing for sure, he'll be tough to replace."

Baker, runner-up to Jim Corrigan of the Argos as the outstanding defensive player in the CFL last year, is undecided about his football future.

"When I came here I wanted to finish my career with the Lions," he said. "Now I don't know what will happen."

"I won't retire if I'm healthy at the end of the season."

The Lions did not acquire Baker from the Riders for whom he played six seasons. Aware that he was moving here after the 1973 season, the Riders traded him to the Argos for Steve Smead and Pete Watson, two imports no longer with the club.

The Lions obtained him from the Argos for George Anderson, Bob Friend and a No. 1 draft choice.

Check Out That Axle Ratio For New Tires or Vehicle

Thinking about taking the plunge and buying a new pickup or four-wheel-drive vehicle for your outdoor adventures?

There's one factor you should take into consideration — often overlooked in the excitement of closing a deal — that determines the total off-road and on-highway efficiency of your vehicle.

Choosing the right axle ratio is perhaps the most important part of selecting drive-train components.

I recently stumbled on a dead-end problem shopping for a new set of tires that furnished a ready-made rationalization for getting a new four-by-four.

While checking out tire prices in a California-based outfitter's catalogue, I came across an interesting article by Don Brown, editor of Pickup, Van and 4-Wheel-Drive magazine, which outlined a critical relationship between axle ratios, engine speed and tire size.

Since I wanted to put larger tires on my '75 Dodge Ramcharger in a bid to get better ground clearance, the article proved to be a decisive factor in my decision to trade in on a new model.

Checking out the specifications of my engine, a 318 cubic-inch V-8, showed the horsepower was rated at 4,000 revolutions-per-minute. The article said that the power curve of any engine may be found between 60 and 80 per cent of that figure — or between 2,400 and 3,200 rpm for the 318.

However, the pinch was the standard 3.23 axle ratio. A quick look at a table showed that with this gear ratio, the engine would be turning over at 2,134 rpm at 60 miles per hour with a 30.5-inch overall diameter tire.

That's well below the optimum power curve and the engine would actually be operating in a lugging condition most of the time — hardly great for either highway or off-road use.

I would have had to stick with a 2.8-inch overall diameter tire or less to approach the bottom end of the power curve and the critical clearance under the differential casings would have suffered as a result.

And since the cost of changing the gear ratios and purchasing new tires would have been close to what I had to pay on the trade-in difference, it was easy to opt for a new '76.

Right now might be a good time to explain why the overall diameter is used instead of referring to tire sizes like 9.50x16.5 or H78d15.

It's simple! Tire diameters can vary tremendously between manufacturers despite bearing the same size designation.

Thus an 11x15 tire is larger in diameter than a 9.50x16.5 by a good 2.4 inches.

In the new vehicle (same make) I've ordered a 3.55 ratio with an anti-spin device on the rear axle that should give a lot better performance. A 3.90 ratio would have been better but the anti-spin option, which gives an appreciable increase in traction, was only available with the 3.55.

***

Besides increasing clearance, which is vital on some of the washed-out logging roads of Vancouver Island, the use of larger tires helps soften the harsh ride characteristics often found with heavy-duty four-by-fours.

I test-drove a new vehicle with large 11x15 tires in Duncan and took it over a torn-up section of street at 30 m.p.h. without feeling a jolt.

Ten minutes later, I took my vehicle with more conventional 6.50x16 tires over the same route and couldn't go over 10 m.p.h. without rattling everything in the truck.

Larger tires also give better traction over a wider range of conditions off-road — but only if they're equipped with a mud and snow type tread pattern.

On the negative side, they are a little noisier on the highway (although this again depends on the tread pattern) and can be unstable in the snow when attached to a lighter vehicle such as a Jeep C-J-5.

Then again any tire can perform badly in certain snow conditions and it's good sense to carry at least one pair of tire chains.

If you have a four-by-four, two pairs of chains and a winch provide good insurance against a long cold walk to get help — or worse.

In general, remember that lower gear ratios (higher numerically) are best with large tires.

Also, when you're checking out that new rig, pay attention to more than the color and engine size.

Merchants Snap Losing Streak

Juan de Fuca Merchants came from behind a 7-1 deficit in the second period to tie Victoria Maple Leafs, 7-7, and earn their first point of the Big Six Hockey League season Tuesday night at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Bryan Carbery scored two goals for the Merchants who dropped their first seven games of the season. John Murray, Perry Head, Darrell Ell, Dan Walushka and Andy Konopacki scored singles for Merchants.

Bob Martin and Ron MacNeil each scored two goals and had one assist for Maple Leafs. Chris Riddell, Dave Wilson and Ken Waet scored the other goals.

German Doctors Challenge Olympic Ban on Steroids

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A group of West German sports doctors is challenging the Olympic ban on anabolic steroids, claiming the muscle-building drugs are harmless to physically mature athletes if dosages are carefully controlled.

The specialists, who provide medical advice to the West German Olympic committee, say athletes in both East and West are forced to use the muscle-building drugs in order to meet norms in 18 separate Olympic disciplines — weightlifting, wrestling, discus and shot put, among them.

They say steroids were secretly sanctioned years ago by the Soviet bloc nations, where teams of doctors are assigned to supervise drugs and other medical aids for Communist athletes.

In the West, however, steroids have been outlawed on the basis of "highly emotional arguments about sports ethics," and to remain competitive, western athletes take steroids on the sly; without medical supervision, often swallowing "irresponsibly high dosages."

"We have three possibilities," Dr. Wildor Hollmann, one of the dissidents told a conference of German sports doctors last weekend in Freiburg.

"One, we formally announce that we won't prescribe steroids, and surrender the world sports standard to the East bloc. Two, the Olympics bans all 18 sports in which the muscle pill is used.

"Three, we as doctors decide to support; every measure that helps to improve the athletes' performance, without injuring their health. I favor the last option," he said.

Dr. Alois Mader, who helped treat East Germany's powerful women swimmers before he defected in 1974, said steroids have "no health endangering side effects" on physically mature athletes when administered in correct doses under medical supervision.

Mader said female athletes need smaller doses of steroids than males and their muscles benefit with less training, rapidly improving their performances four to six weeks after the initial dosage.

"This is one of the reasons for the high superiority of East German sports in women's disciplines," said Mader, now a researcher at the West German Sports University in Cologne.

He also cautioned against viewing steroids as wonder drugs and stressed that they can be effective only in combination with muscle building exercises.

A SWITCH TO IPSWICH FOR PLYMOUTH STRIKER

IPSWICH, England (Reuter) — Paul Mariner, the coveted high-scoring striker, has been acquired by Ipswich Town of the English League First Division from Second Division Plymouth Argyle in a soccer transaction estimated to be worth £200,000 ($322,000).

In addition to £130,000 in cash, Plymouth will get two Ipswich players, defender John Peddely and striker Terry Austin, for the centre-forward. And Ipswich has agreed to play an exhibition match against Plymouth and also pay an extra £20,000 if Mariner is named to three England international teams.

West Ham United and West Bromwich Albion were also trying to get Mariner.

Henry Has a Habit

Dan Henry of Gorge Molsons continues to display the habit of producing team-saving goals in the premier division of the Vancouver Island Soccer League.

Henry, who scored a last-minute goal to salvage a 3-3 tie with Oak Bay on Saturday, scored twice in the last six minutes Tuesday night to lead Molsons to a 5-4 victory over Cougar gave Royals an early Athletic Park.

He knotted the score at 4-4 by booting Jindy Johl's corner kick into the net at 84 minutes and then slammed home the winner at 89 minutes after collecting a pass from Dan Green.

Johl, Green and Ian Bridge notched the other Molson tallies in the match, which was a replay of a Sept. 25 encounter that was nullified when Royals successfully protested a penalty kick violation.

Rudi Kuebler and Brock Coupar gave Royals in early lead with goals at two and six minutes, but Molsons bounced back with three counters before half time.

Gli McIlraith and Kuebler then put Royals ahead 4-3 before Henry sparked the winning rally.

for the Braves, while Brent Patterson, Bill Adkin, Jim Story, Mike Shemilt, Ed Beauchemin and Ron Johnson had singles.

New Viking Coach Issues Orders for Good Behavior

Victoria Cougars aren't the only team in town facing a good-behavior edict this season.

The same applies to the University of Victoria Vikings in the Canada West men's basketball league, but for a different reason.

Cougars, you may have heard, have been told by the city to clean up their act in the Western Canada Hockey League or face eviction from Memorial Arena.

Vikings don't have to worry about eviction notices but the way new coach Ken Shields sees it, too many fouls could lead to deep trouble.

"Let's face it," Shields admitted, "we're pretty inexperienced at forward. They're all young kids backing up the starters. We'll have to play good defence and stay out of foul trouble because while those rookies should be able to go in and play in spots, we can't expect them to go in and play a lot without hurting the team."

Shields' concern stems from the loss of several of last year's players, including Lorne Dakin, Dave Speed, Tim McGovern, Bert Zethof and Doug Mosher.

Dakin, McGovern and Zethof have taken the year off to work. Speed is travelling in Europe and Mosher transferred to University of British Columbia.

Vikings, however, have a solid starting forward unit in centre Lee Edmondson (6'5") and forwards Jim Duddridge (6'5") and Chris Hebb (6'3").

The back court is stronger with the addition of guard Grant Holand (5'10"), who played two years for Simon Fraser Clansmen and one season with Victoria Scorpions. He'll join returnee Robbie Parris (5'8") and Jayvee Grads Micev Welder (6'1"), Tom Watson (6'1"), Ian Hydeley (6') and Dale McLoughlin (6'2").

Boland is recovering from an ankle sprain suffered in a scrimmage last week against the Scorpions.

There's a flock of promising newcomers up front. These include Ted Anderson, a 6-foot-4 Uvic sophomore from Alberta who played for London Boxers last season, Warren Wagstaff (6'3") from Nanaimo and Albert Olson (6'3") from Terrace.

Vikings aren't the only team in the Canada West conference losing players.

Albert Golden Bears have lost Brad Holland and Colin Fennell but Doug Baker is back to ease the strain on new coach Gary Smith, replacing Barry Mitchellson.

Saskatchewan Huskies have their top player, Roger Gaines, back but little has been heard from Lethbridge

Viking Prep For Opener

Pronghorns. They have a new coach in John Affleck, former assistant at Simon Fraser.

UBC Thunderbirds are loaded with returnees under coach Peter Mullins and are heavy favorites to finish on top. Almost all their players are back, among them Jan Bohn, Chris Trunmy, Mike McKay and Ralph Turner.

Vikings open the season with their annual intersquad game Friday at 8:30 p.m. at the McKinnon Gym and the grad game Saturday, also at McKinnon, starting at 7:30 p.m. Gary Taylor, who retired as Viking coach after last season, will guide the Grads.

National coach Jack Donohue of Ottawa will be on hand Saturday to conduct an all-day clinic at McKinnon open to all coaches. It starts at 9:30 a.m. and the registration fee is $10.

Donohue will also be guest speaker at a dinner following the Saturday night game.

NURSES CHECK PATIENT CARE

Nurses are being asked by the Registered Nurses Association of B.C. to document situations where provincial government economic restraints may be affecting patient care.

RNABC president Thirley Duck said "there is continuing talk about poorer patient care because of funding problems."

But Duck said there is a need for more than talk. "If things are wrong, we need facts."

Without facts, she said, it would seem that cost restraint is not threatening the quality of patient care.

"Hopefully that is true, but we need your help to be certain," she told members of the RNABC.

Student Suites Plan Rejected

A proposal to build apartments for students at 2249 McCoy Road near the University of Victoria has been turned down for the third time at a Saanich public hearing.

The hearing was held to consider a land-use contract between Saanich and the developers, Angus and Pike Contractors Ltd., F. Chung and Associates Ltd. and the Orkney Properties Ltd.

The developers proposed to build a 4½-storey frame building containing 72 apartments, 56 one-bedroom and 16 bachelor units.

Opposition to the proposal came from both nearby residents and university officials.

A spokesman for the university's Alma Mater Society doubted if students would be able to afford to rent there if the apartment was allowed.

Pressed to give an idea of what the rents would be, a spokesman for the developers said he was unable to set a figure at this time.

Trevor Matthews, UVic's dean of administration, and Lloyd Fairclough, the university's director of property development, both said Saanich would be reneging on a commitment made to the university to keep the surrounding area low-profile, with single-family homes or perhaps, some townhouses.

"We've always been led to believe by Oak Bay and Saanich that the university would be bounded by single-family housing units," Matthews said.

He said buildings on the campus had been developed with this in mind.

Ald. Sandy Noel said a building of that size should not receive approval from council to be built at the "western entrance to a beautiful and expanding campus."

The university officials joined residents in warning of the traffic congestion and other problems the apartment would accelerate.

Ald. Fred Severson, proponent of student accommodation, asked Matthews what accommodation the university is planning.

Matthews said a 300-unit dormitory style residence is being planned, as well as married student quarters.

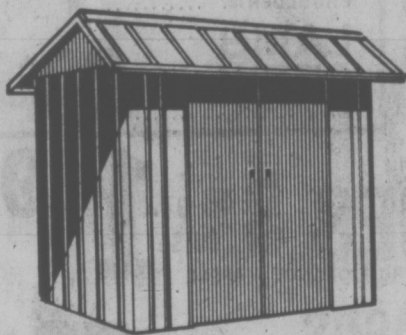

In past, Matthews said, funding for such housing by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had gone mostly to eastern universities.

He forecast this trend was changing.

In other business, council approved a 37-unit apartment to be built on 922, 962 and 970 Inverness Street.

Architect Ben Levinson said there will be 25 one-bedroom and 12 two-bedroom rental units.

Ruling on Oct. 14 Legality Wanted by B.C. Pulp Industry

b.c. briefs

Labor Peace Foreseen At B.C. Rail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Whittaker, chairman of the Joint Council of British Columbia Railway Unions, said Tuesday that improved labor relations at the troubled railway could be at hand.

Following an exploratory meeting Tuesday between union officials and the provincially-owned railway's new board of directors, Whittaker said he is "very encouraged by the frankness and openness of the new directors."

"I think some of the directors have a pretty good record of labor relations in their own companies and they all indicated they wanted to keep the railway moving," he said.

Whittaker suggested that the directors may act on suggestions made by union leaders to resolve a lengthy dispute that began when the collective agreement at B.C. Rail expired in August, 1975. He would not say what the unions suggested but added that "moves made by the directors in the next few days will make it obvious."

Man Charged.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert John McClelland, 24, of North Vancouver was charged Tuesday with possession of cocaine for the purpose of trafficking. The charge follows a weekend raid at a North Vancouver home in which 94 ounces of cocaine valued at $145,000 was seized.

Blaze Controlled

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A fire broke out at the Weyerhaeuser pulp mill here Tuesday night, but firemen brought the blaze under control within 30 minutes. The fire was confined to one of the mill's digesters and production was not disrupted.

Girl Killed

VERNON (CP) — Shelly Lyn Colledge, 16, of Vernon, was killed in a two-car collision here Tuesday. Police say she died after she was struck by a vehicle which veered onto a sidewalk while trying to avoid colliding with another vehicle.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia pulp and paper industry has asked the B.C. Labor Relations Board for a ruling on the legality of the Oct. 14 protest walkout by employees at 14 of its 20 pulp mills.

The request is in the form of an application by the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau to the board for a declaratory opinion on whether the one-day strike constituted a violation of the pulp unions' contract with the industry.

Don Saunders, pulp bureau chairman, said Tuesday the master agreement contains a clause guaranteeing there will be "no interruption of work" by employees during the length of the contract.

"But we don't know how the clause will be interpreted in view of recent rulings by LRB that it was not necessarily illegal to stay away from work on Oct. 14," he said.

"We want to know if a contract violation has occurred in the opinion of the board."

In a declaratory opinion issued on the eve of labor's national day of protest against federal wage controls, the labor board ruled the one-day walkout was not an illegal strike but could violate specific collective agreements.

The board said at the time the question of contract violations and possible discipline resulting from the violations was best left in the hands of an arbitrator.

Pulp officials have estimated the loss to the industry at $6 million because of union walkouts.

It is not expected the industry will take disciplinary action against its workers if it receives a favorable opinion from the board.

The industry is seeking a ruling more with a view to assessing where it stands legally in order to react to the possibility of similar one-day protests in the future.

CAR PLUNGES IN SEA, TWO MEN DROWN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harbor police are investigating the cause of an accident Tuesday in which two men drowned after the car they were in plunged off a wharf into Burrard Inlet near the CP Ferry terminal.

A third man escaped the car.

The victims were identified as Joseph Gnidica, 27, a seaman aboard the Yugoslav ship MP Trovutje, and Joseph Galjot, 20, of Vancouver. The lone survivor was Miloslav Hudnik, 26, also a seaman on the Yugoslav ship.

Hudnik was able to kick out a window of the car and free himself. He was reported in good condition in hospital.

Police suggested the occupants may have confused the bridge-like pier with an overpass which routes traffic to Centennial Pier, where their vessel is berthed.

New Hospital Opposed Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — Phyllis G. Whitmore, president of the British Columbia Health Association, said Tuesday that health care planning in the province is fragmented and costly.

Mrs. Whitmore said in a news release that the government's plan to proceed with construction of a 240-bed acute care hospital at the University of B.C. is the most recent example of fragmented planning.

"It can not be adequately explained either on the basis of patient care needs, or the need for teaching facilities," Mrs. Whitmore said.

Health Minister Bob McClelland and Education Minister Pat McGeer announced last Thursday that construction of the teaching hospital would cost about $37 million.

Mrs. Whitmore said Tuesday the hospital would cost $50 million to construct, plus $15 million to $20 million a year in operational costs.

She said the additional expense will mean services will be cut elsewhere.

37 YEARS FOR ROBBER

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 22-year-old man faces 37 years in prison after being sentenced Tuesday to the last of three consecutive sentences for robbery convictions.

Ralph Lee Saumer was sentenced Tuesday by county court judge G. B. Ladner to 10 years for the $300 dollar robbery of a Vancouver supermarket last March 1.

Judge Ladner, following a submission by Crown counsel David Winkler, ruled the sentence will start after Saumer has completed serving the 27 years he is already doing for two previous armed robbery convictions.

Rodriguez Testifies

NANAIMO (CP) — Defence Melendez told a British Columbia Supreme Court counsel for James Rodriguez murder trial Tuesday that Rodriguez shot James Oldfield and Pamela Jones last year.

Lawyer Michael Hutchison made the statement to the jury before placing Rodriguez on the witness stand. Rodriguez, 25, is charged with the Oct. 24, 1975, shooting deaths of Oldfield and Jones in a house about three miles from Duncan.

"You will not deny that it was his (Rodriguez) hand that pulled the trigger that ended the lives of those two," said Hutchison.

"You will hear his story of a very few horrible moments in that house," he added.

Hutchison said that Rodriguez would tell of two Crown witnesses helping him dispose of the bodies and of the suggestions made by the two, who were more engineers of that disposal than was Rodriguez.

Rodriguez testified that he and Oldfield shared the house out of a common need for a place to live and told of Oldfield bringing Jones to live there with him.

Rodriguez said Oldfield often slept with a rifle under the bed and that Jones wore a sheathed knife about her waist. He said she would sometimes walk about the house nude except for the knife.

The trial continues.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 24-year-old Victoria area man already serving three years for break-ins will be sentenced Nov. 9 in Victoria provincial court by Judge William Ostler after admitting he sold one capsule of heroin to an undercover RCMP officer.

Michael Sydney Clark pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of trafficking in heroin by selling the capsule for $45 last Jan. 22 at the Halfway House, 856 Esquimalt.

Defence lawyer Kenneth Walton asked the judge to consider the fact that Clark had been sentenced in August of this year to three years for break-ins and was about to start a cooking course at Camosun College in the William Head pre-release program.

Walton said Clark was "not a person who sells this drug as a living" but was a heroin user who had the capsule for his own use, then sold it because he "came to believe this person was a user like himself... who was a hard up guy."

The defence lawyer said his client had no record before the January sale. Ostler said he wanted more information about Clark and the pre-release course and remanded the case to Nov. 9 for sentence.

Ostler ended a bail hearing for Samuel Taylor Karaim, 22, of 85 West Burnside, by ordering detention in custody. Two Saanich charges dated last Saturday were read Monday against Karaim — one of a break-in and theft at Burnside Pharmacy, 30 West Burnside, and the other of possession of known stolen bottles of capsules.

Karaim chose trial by county court judge on the first charge and pleaded not guilty to the other. Hearing dates may be set today. At the request of defence lawyer Kenneth Walton, the judge issued an order prohibiting publication or broadcast of bail-hearing details.

One count of attempting to obtain $1,000 worth of goods through false pretences in connection with a worthless cheque was among eight counts in two charges read against Victoria area resident Donald Arthur Bell, 38, address not known.

The attempt count was dated Aug. 28 while the other seven counts of false pretences were dated June 18 to Aug. 20 in Saanich and Victoria and charged use of worthless cheques to obtain a total of $401 worth of goods. Bell, who appeared by summons, pleaded not guilty to all counts. Ostler set his trial for Feb. 21.

Victoria area resident Roland Hanser, 23, address not known, pleaded guilty to a two-count Victoria charge of stealing four clothing items worth a total of $217 Oct. 18 — three from the T. Eaton Co. and one from The Bay. Ostler fined Hanser $250 on one count and put him on six months' probation on the other.

Ganges Break-In

Two charges were read Tuesday in Victoria provincial court against five Lower Mainland residents after a weekend incident in which Ganges RCMP said more than $1,400 damage was done to a newly-built home on Price Road.

The five were Richard Philip LeClair, 18, of Delta, and four Vancouverites, Douglas Charles Coleman, age not known; Kenneth Roger Mondor, 19; Gordon Arthur Ramm, 27, and Russell William Snyder, 19.

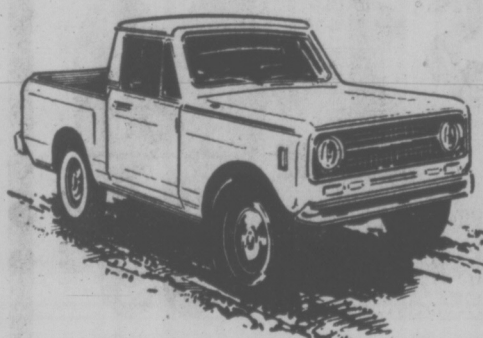

Their first joint charge was one of a break-in and theft

Saturday at the new home, with a second count of possession of a chain saw, cookware, fireplace tools, bedding and other items known to be stolen. The second charge was one of mischief by wilfully damaging the home.

Legal Aid duty counsel Scott Marshall said all five wanted a remand to next Tuesday for further hearing. Judge William Ostler allowed the release of the five on undertakings to return then.

No details of the damage were given but police said the five were arrested by RCMP in Delta.

GAS RETAILERS 'IN TROUBLE'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the National Automotive Trades Association said Tuesday the independent gas retailing industry is in desperate trouble, its ranks thinned by as much as 30 per cent and its future uncertain. Arch Dickson, a Calgary service station operator, said in an interview while at the annual convention of the Automotive Retailers Association of British Columbia, that unnecessary government delays and the manipulation of the retail market by large oil multi-national companies has caused the situation.

Time Growing Short —UN Environment Chief

PARIS (Reuter) — Man is mismanaging both land and sea and within a decade might do hugely expensive damage to the environment, says the head of the United Nations Environment Program.

Dr. Mostafa Tolba, an Egyptian microbiologist who became head of the organization this year, said: "I am not a pessimist by nature and I don't want to sound alarmist. But time is short. Unless we do something, and do it quickly to stop further degradation, it will be very costly to meet the requirements of the next 10 years."

Dr. Tolba, a stocky scientist who speaks concisely, sounded four alarm bells—on chemicals, seas, the ozone layer and soil erosion—and the world should pay attention, he said.

The Seveso plant disaster in Italy had highlighted chemical dangers and Dr. Tolba said: "More than 1,000 new chemicals are being thrown on the market every year."

He said it was often impossible to gauge what effect the mixture of two chemicals on humans, animals and plants had been.

"This issue requires us to be very careful with safety standards and stringent regulations must be set by governments to ensure we are not stepping into the unknown," he said.

The picture Dr. Tolba paints of the world's seas is depressing and a marine rescue operation is high on the UN body's list of priorities.

"The Mediterranean is a sick sea. It's not dead," he said.

The Persian Gulf was "in a miserable state with all the pollution by oil and minerals from the oil-producing countries."

"The Red Sea is in the same state. The Caribbean faces similar problems as do the west coast of Africa and the Malacca Straits."

"We want to halt the process of deterioration and ensure that countries around these regional seas continue to develop without causing any damage to the sea and its environment."

On the ozone layer, the thinand fragile strip that surrounds the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Tolba cites two potential problems.

"With the Concorde supersonic airliner's planned flights and present flying heights, there is no critical risk to the ozone layer. But if they increase the height of flying, then the ozone layer could be damaged."

"Nitrogen fertilizers might also be harmful to the ozone layer, highlighting the dilemma between the desire to produce more food and the problem of unbalancing the atmosphere."

To the UN chief, soil loss is a problem equal to the damage from industrial pollutants. The developing world, he said, is losing land by overworking it.

"Wind and water take over and then it is eroded," he said.

HOW TO FIX A WHITE ELEPHANT

It sounds like it should be big and white and wild. But strangely, a White Elephant is short and white and smooth. So smooth, and so delicious, in fact, that you'll hardly know that it has 2 oz. of liquor in it. Like all elephants, a White Elephant should always be treated with respect.

Here's all you do to mix a White Elephant: pour 1 oz. Smirnoff, 1 oz. white creme de cacao and 1 oz. milk into a short glass with ice. Stir. And enjoy the little alabaster behemoth.

Witches... Sincere, Harmless People

SEATTLE — Witchcraft is Richard Miller's answer to the apocalypse. "I don't see society as surviving," says Miller, 32, a physicist with a list of degrees stretching from Washington State University to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "Like the ancient Greeks, I don't believe in hope," he says. "Hope is an illusion that there is some sort of omniscient spirit that is going to reach down and hand you a cookie. To have hope is absurd. Instead of hope, I have myself. I am complete. "Witchcraft is my alternative to the apocalypse." Witchcraft is a religion, Miller says, and those who practice it are mostly harmless, sincere people who come from all walks of life. He teaches witchcraft at the University of Washington Experimental College and is owner of Beltane Occult Bookstore and Beltane Herb Company in Seattle's Fremont district.

"But I won't be here in 10 years," he says. "I'm using all this to escape. I'm going to build it up, sell it to someone like General Mills, and set up a tribal community in the mountains." Miller quit his engineering job five years ago and became a witch when he "took a good hard look at science and saw it was another religion with no more truth than any other." Witchcraft, he says, offers another way of looking at reality.

"Think of magic, science and religion as three large spheres," he said. "Where magic overlaps science it's called parapsychology. Where magic overlaps religion it's called witchcraft." He defined magic as the art of effecting changes in the consciousness of will. What about Rosemary's Baby and all that kind of stuff? "All that is subjective. Witches don't believe in good and evil and the devil," he said.

Gotterdammerung! What a Scandal

Allyson

VIENNA — It was just another night at the opera, until the conductor burst into song. Wagner-lovers are still reeling from the shock. All was going normally at the State Opera House as Birgit Nilsson, Karl Ridderbusch and Hans Beier sang their way through Gotterdammerung. Then in act three Beier, singing the part of Siegfried, came in a few bars too soon. Conductor Horst Stein cut him short and sang the refrain himself. The 66-year-old tenor, now nervous, made the same mistake again. This time Stein not only sang but gave the beat. There were catcalls from the audience and front-page banner headlines in the Vienna newspapers: Scandal at the Opera.

Carmichael

SANTA MONICA — Actress June Allyson will marry dentist Dr. David Ashrow in Palm Springs, Calif., on Saturday. It is the third marriage for both Ashrow, 55, and Miss Allyson.

TORONTO — Stokely Carmichael, former leader of the Black Panther Party, urged black Canadians on Tuesday to build a free Africa. Carmichael, 35, a self-styled revolutionary who coined the phrase black power 10 years ago, said blacks should have pride in their African origins. He has lived in African Guinea since 1969 and now regards himself as an African, he said.

WASHINGTON — Former U.S. Supreme Court justice William Douglas is at home in Washington, recuperating from a broken hip which has had him in hospital since Labor Day. He has been partially paralyzed from a stroke and is confined to a wheelchair.

Montreal Surgery For Allon

MONTREAL — Yigal Allon, foreign minister and deputy prime minister of Israel, has successfully undergone surgery here for a nerve condition.

The surgery was performed 10 days ago by Dr. Jules Hardy, neurosurgeon and professor at the University of Montreal, after Allon travelled here secretly from a United Nations general assembly.

Allon is now en route home to Israel.

"He had a delicate operation for the relief of facial spasms," an Israeli spokesman said, adding that the 58-year-old foreign minister had suffered the condition for a number of years.

AN AGE-OLD STORY GETS TOLD AGAIN

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. — It is a story as old as the sea: A ship, a storm and the families who wait for the men they will never see again. On Tuesday, the people of this tiny seaport lowered their flags to half-mast in mourning for the seven fishermen of the schooner Patricia Marie, the latest to vanish in the 350 years that men have been going down to the sea from Provincetown.

Relatives pleaded with the U.S. Coast Guard to resume the search for the bodies of the missing crew members for a "decent burial, at least." The coast guard called off the search after 23 hours. In bars along the fishing pier, fishermen could only guess what happened to the boat they called "the best equipped boat in the harbor."

"The boat must have been loaded to the scuppers," said Steven Zawalick, 30, whose brother was among the crew.

WINE BOTTLE DEATH PROBE

TORONTO — Police are investigating the death of Lotie Davidson, 79, who died after being hit on the head by a wine bottle thrown from a 20-storey apartment building next to her home.

Mrs. Davidson was hit with the bottle while mowing her back lawn Oct. 2 and died following an operation to remove a blood clot on her brain.

Police are checking tenants in the building in an effort to find the person responsible.

Lawyer Fined for Failure

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon F. McNab, a Niagara Falls, Ont., lawyer who failed to begin a civil suit for a man against a policeman, was ordered Tuesday by the Ontario Supreme Court to pay the man $90,260.

The award was made to Robert Edward Prior of the St. Catharines, Ont., area after McNab was found negligent for failing to start Prior's civil suit against the policeman within the six-month limitation period.

In a 30-page judgment, Mr. Justice Robert Reid ruled that the policeman, identified only as Constable Burke, used excessive force in ejecting Prior from a hotel in Crystal Beach, Ont., July 6, 1972.

Mr. Justice Reid said Prior, because of brain injuries suffered in the incident, is abnormally irritated by common noises such as the sound of an electric clock or refrigerator. "His speech has been affected," said Mr. Justice Reid. "He has lost confidence in himself."

The judge found that Prior's wife had instructed McNab to initiate civil proceedings at a meeting in the lawyer's office Jan. 5, 1973. "I think, therefore, that the Priors were justified in their belief that they had effectively instructed Mr. McNab to commence proceedings," Mr. Justice Reid said. McNab said in an interview Tuesday he did not know of the judgment. He said he received no written instructions from Mrs. Prior to proceed with the suit until two weeks after the limitation period ended.

SHARON'S DAD REFUSES HELP

RICHMOND (CP) — Roy Bethune said Tuesday he does not want federal compensation for legal costs he incurred while his 22-year-old daughter Sharon was imprisoned in Mexico for eight months.

John Reynolds, MP for Burnaby-Richmond-Delta, earlier said the legal aid system should apply to citizens in foreign countries.

Sharon Bethune was charged with the use of counterfeit U.S. currency but was later cleared. Her boyfriend, Richard Terry, is still in a Mexican jail on similar charges.

Bethune, a longshoreman, said legal fees for a Mexican lawyer came to $8,000, of which he is paying $2,000, with the balance in $200-a-month instalments.

He said he will not accept federal compensation because he does not see why the government, or anyone else, should have to pay for his problems.

Bethune said he has received cheques through the mail from British Columbia residents, and although he appreciates the thoughts, "I'd rather do it by myself."

Vicious Drunk Gets Five Years in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP) — Adam John Pierre, 23, described as a dangerous and vicious man when drunk, was sentenced to five years in prison Tuesday in British Columbia supreme court on charges of attempted rape, robbery and assault with intent to wound.

Mr. Justice J. G. Rutland told Pierre that he had failed to respond to considerable treatment in the past and that his primary concern was protection of society rather than rehabilitation.

Pierre was convicted by a jury which was told that he and a companion had followed the 24-year-old victim from a beer parlor to her apartment, where she was beaten and raped by Pierre's companion while Pierre robbed her boyfriend of $8. The friend, in a bid to get out of the apartment and get help, said he had $100 in his car and was taken outside by Pierre, who had a knife.

When he finally admitted that he didn't have the $100, he was stabbed and left on the street by Pierre, who re-entered the apartment and attempted to rape the woman.

Government Caught with Its 'Nos' Away from Stone

By PETER THOMSON
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Opposition parties lost their 45-minute question period in the Commons Tuesday.

But they gained the satisfaction of seeing the government embarrassed by its own ineptitude, and forced to vote against widows and orphans.

The turmoil arose over a simple motion under Standing Order 43, which urged the government to review pension policy and increase survivors' allowances on public service pensions.

A 43 can't be put to the House unless there is unanimous consent. Normally an opposition 43 draws a chorus of Nays from Liberal ranks.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North) later said the government was "asleep at the switch".

Conservative Leader Joe Clark said it was evidence of "a government in disarray".

Tory House leader Walter Baker suggested the government "can't even organize a No."

In any event, when the Speaker asked if there was unanimous consent there was nary a no, in either official language — at least not one loud enough for the Speaker to hear. So, he put the motion.

The Conservatives, NDP and Social Credit members all shouted "aye".

Liberals shouted "no".

But the opposition, in the Speaker's opinion won the Liberal Whip Joe Guay to explain he had said "No," but hadn't been heard.

And time enough for Ralph Goodale, Parliamentary secretary to the House Leader to get into the House.

The vote was an anti-climax. The Liberals defeated the motion 106 to 85.

But time had flown. An hour had gone by. It was now past the normal question period.

Baker rose on a point of order to ask unanimous consent to have question period, since the business of the day was not of the pressing variety.

The government had demonstrated, he said, that "it couldn't even organize a No."

MacEachen lamely suggested the government had welcomed the opportunity "to take a stand for fiscal restraint."

As for reverting to question period, MacEachen added: "I have no intention of healing the Hon. Member's wounds."

When unanimous consent to hold question period was put to the House there was a chorus of No from Liberal ranks that the last three Speakers could have heard.

The next round of the political game was fought before television cameras outside the House.

Bosses Blamed For Pay Demand

STOP PORN AT BORDER ONTARIO DEMANDING

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry said Tuesday he has asked the federal government to stop the flow of pornographic magazines from the United States by having all magazines enter Canada through selected border crossings.

McMurtry said that 95 per cent of pornographic magazines entering Canada come from the U.S.

Customs officers at these crossings would sift out questionable magazines, which would be examined by special censorship boards — similar to film censorship boards, he said.

The attorney-general said U.S. prosecutors and law enforcement agencies have virtually ignored the pornography industry.

OTTAWA (CP) — Management and government officials who have "lost all sense of proportion" are as much to blame as workers seeking high wages for Canada's economic woes, Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) said in the Commons Tuesday.

Management goes after higher salaries and government officials don't exercise financial restraint, adding to the cost of goods and services, he said.

He was speaking during debate on a bill to change tariffs on a wide range of items as part of the government's controls programs.

The bill is basically the same as one that died when the old session of Parliament ended Oct. 12. It had to be reintroduced.

Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said the bill allows the government to restore the full tariffs if it appears Canadian manufacturers are suffering.

Lambert said the government is showing paucity in reducing tariffs while many of its major trading partners use non-tariff barriers to protect their domestic industries.

Canadian industries are increasingly unable to compete with foreign imports, he added.

Their rising costs are hurting their ability to compete in export markets as well, he added.

Government departments will not follow the federal restraint program and municipalities are charging fees and rates that have increased 100 per cent.

"This is to be added to the costs that affect the prices on what we sell abroad."

NDP Feels Jobless Rate Can Be Slashed

Times News Services

OTTAWA — New Democrats have disclosed a set of party policies they say would virtually eliminate unemployment within four years.

It was promptly described by Revenue Minister Bud Cullen as "a nice play when you're not in power" and "fiscal irresponsibility."

In a paper released today, the party says high costs associated with unemployment — lost production and unemployment insurance and welfare claims — are unnecessary.

Unemployment could be reduced to five per cent of the work force within two years and three per cent within four, the party says.

To achieve a full employment, the NDP calls on the government to reduce personal income taxes for lower and middle incomes and to set up federal capital works projects and encourage provinces to do the same.

The party also calls for a government-backed repair program for homes owned by pensioners, the disabled and low-income earners.

It says the government should also start a program of insulating or improving insulation in federal buildings, a move that would provide jobs and conserve energy.

The party says in a statement that such programs should be complemented with a longer-term policy of eliminating unemployment.

The NDP would set up an investment fund for creating jobs, offer incentives to private industry to create work and set up government programs to promote new business opportunities.

The employment proposals are the first from the NDP under a major policy reassessment started in late 1975.

SWINE FLU SHOTS WILL GO AHEAD

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Michael Dixon, chairman of the federal government's national immunizing, Tuesday denied reports his committee will advise the government to scrap its plans for large-scale immunization against swine flu.

"The committee deplores the release by the CBC of this premature, incorrect report which by its misleading content could affect the confidence of the Canadian public in the influenza vaccination program," the Edmonton doctor told a news conference.

The CBC said in a national newscast that the committee would recommend the program be scrapped.

Dixon said the 11-member committee concluded its two-day meeting here Tuesday with the decision that its recommendations on the $12 million swine flu inoculation program should "remain substantially unchanged from those made in June."

He said some minor changes had been made including broadening the chronically ill category.

Dim Forecast On Economy

HOT POTATO, TORIES SAY

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Conservative MPs have attacked Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan for not protecting the interests of British Columbia potato farmers.

John Reynolds (Burnaby-Richmond-Delta) and John Wise (Elgin) said Tuesday in a joint statement that tons of low-grade potatoes imported from the U.S. are depressing the market price paid to provincial growers.

"Since the Canadian tariff on potatoes is insignificant, tons have been shipped into British Columbia forcing prices downwards," the statement said.

Takeover Blasted

WASHINGTON (FP) — Saskatchewan's planned takeover of potash mines has "weakened" a potentially healthy industry and made Canada a "less attractive place" for private investment, says a new study published Tuesday.

The Montreal-based C. D. Howe Research Institute warns that the provincial government "may find it difficult to justify" expansion of the mining industry — one of the aims of the takeovers — if profits from its investment are "as low as seems possible."

The study, circulating in U.S. government and business circles, states that the industry "would almost certainly have gone ahead with expansion had it not been for the business climate created by Saskatchewan's plans."

MONTREAL (CP) — The recovery of the Canadian economy will probably continue slowly in the final quarter of 1976 and the first half of next year, the Royal Bank of Canada's Trendicator suggests.

Based on partial data, the index showed an estimated 0.7-per-cent annual increase in the final quarter, compared with a revised two-per-cent rise in the previous quarter and a 1.2-per-cent decline in the first quarter.

"The modest increase in Trendicator indicates that economic growth through the first half of 1977 is not likely to be robust," said Robert Baguley, the bank's senior economist.

The index is a composite of 11 leading economic indicators whose turning points have historically tended to precede those of the economy. On average, it has anticipated upturns in the economy by nine months and downturns by six months.

Complete data were available only for certain of the indicators: the Toronto Stock Exchange TSE price-earnings ratio, housing starts in urban areas and money supply.

The ratio of price to unit labor cost was up 8.1 per cent, money supply rose 6.1 per cent and corporate pre-tax profits 4.9 per cent — above-average increases for all three.

Primary steel production increased a below-average 2.2 per cent, while the TSE price-earnings ratio was up 0.2 per cent, also sluggish.

Of the five components of the Trendicator that declined, three were related to housing. An above-average decline was estimated for the value of building permits.

Below-average declines were estimated for average hours worked in manufacturing, residential building permits issued and the investors' index of 134 common stocks.

CASH DEMANDED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Metis Association of the Northwest Territories asked the federal government Tuesday for funds to pursue its own land claim.

Rick Hardy of Yellowknife, Metis association president, said he met Indian Affairs Minister Warren Allmand and told him the Metis will not support the Dene land claim. He submitted a proposed budget for financing a separate Metis claim and said he expects an answer in about a week.

The Dene claim was submitted Monday. It proposes establishment of a Dene government that would rule over large tracts of the resource-rich Mackenzie River Valley on the west side of the N.W.T. The proposed government would have status similar to that of the provinces.

Dene means people in a majority of Mackenzie Valley Indian dialects.

The Metis association and the Indian Brotherhood of the N.W.T. were to have submitted the Dene claim jointly. However, the two groups severed relations last month during a fight over what the claim should contain.

Something Different At Gallery

Activity this week at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, 1940 Moss, is highlighted by the appearance Thursday of a new group, Caged Spider, in place of the customary chamber music.

A general description of the program this group will offer is that it is a compilation of poetry and jazz entitled Temporal Fugue Circus.

Those interested in multi-or mixed-media presentations, especially as related to contemporary expression, will find the evening both absorbing and entertaining.

Caged Spider was formed seven years ago and later took on its literary bent in conjunction with Ken Fernstrom, a gifted young Vancouver poet who is editor of the literary magazine, Karaki, and was formerly with the English department of McMaster University. His work has been extensively published.

Bill Sample, leader of the music group, was formerly with the Herb Pomeroy Big Band and at the Boston Berkeley School of Jazz. He was the musical director-arranger of the highly successful West Coast production of the rock oratorio, Joseph.

Others in Caged Spider are Rob Lifton, guitarist and vocalist as well as composer, and Dave Hill, tapes co-ordinator and drummer for the group.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. and there is an admission charge for non-gallery members of 50 cents.

On Sunday and Monday, Halloween will be celebrated at the gallery as part of two on-running programs of films. The German film series, Angst, Sunday at 8 p.m., will feature two silent classics, concerned with the sinister and Gothic: The Haunted Castle (1921), F. W. Murnau, and Warming Shadows (1922), Arthur Robison. Suspense, chills and the fantastical and eerie are the materials of these films.

On Monday — All Hallows or All Saints Day — Syntax the gallery's educational film series, will present a program dealing with three great religious painters — Hieronymus Bosch, Pieter Brueghel the Elder and Samuel Palmer. The latter was an English seer in the circle of William Blake noted for his exquisite pastorals which are suffused with a profoundly religious meaning.

This program also starts at 8 p.m. and is free to gallery members with a charge of 50 cents to others.

dependence" of Transkei and asking all nations to shun diplomatic and economic links with South Africa's black off-spring.

The United States was alone in abstaining.

The United States said Washington was opposed to South Africa's apartheid and tribal homelands policies, and would not recognize Transkei, but abstained because of certain provisions and "very loose language" in the resolution.

In Geneva, meanwhile, while Rhodesian leaders rejected new black nationalist demands today and the rivalry among the black leaders surfaced again amid final preparations for the conference on the future of the white bastion in southern Africa.

In Geneva, meanwhile, white Rhodesian leaders rejected new black nationalist demands today and the rivalry among the black leaders surfaced again amid final preparations for the conference on the future of the white bastion in southern Africa.

Senior sources in Prime Minister Ian Smith's delegation scorned black demands that included the immediate release of an estimated 600 blacks held by the white-minority regime and the end of military operations against black guerrillas.

Britain, the sponsor of the conference opening Thursday, said it supports the demand that the political prisoners be freed.

Rhodesian Foreign Minister Pieter van der Byl said his government may be willing to consider releasing specific prisoners to join the black delegations in Geneva.

Bishop Abel Muzorewa, one of the four African nationalist leaders participating in the conference however, predicted Tuesday that there will be a settlement of the 11-year-old conflict, provided Rhodesia's white rulers were "reasonable."

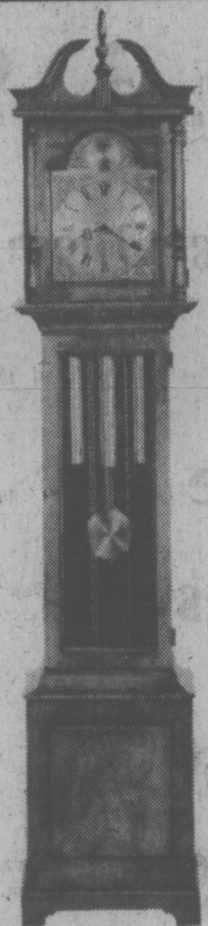

Emerging from a 90-minute session with the British conference chairman Ivor Richard, the diminutive Methodist leader said he thought the preliminary talks were going "very well" and was "very much encouraged" by developments so far.

Unscrambling Omelet Mystery

If you don't know much about omelets, then it's high time you learned! If you know what you're doing, the omelet isn't a tough egg to crack.

First, decide which omelet you want to solve. There's the French omelet, this is a thin cooked egg layer that's set on the outside, and soft on the inside, and the puffy omelet, which is several inches high and has a soufflé-like texture. Both can be garnished with a variety of toppings or fillings, so that they can fit any spot on the menu. Just remember to handle them quickly yet gently.

When making a French omelet, pour the egg mixture into a well greased hot frypan and as the mixture begins to set, lift the edges to allow the uncooked portions to flow underneath. Continue cooking until the underside is lightly browned and the top is set, yet moist. If the omelet has a filling, spoon or sprinkle it on as the recipe directs. With a spatula, loosen any edge of the omelet that may be stuck to the skillet, and fold. Omelets can be folded in half, thirds, or quarters, or simply cut into wedges.

Now that you've cracked the French omelet, why not try the puffy omelet? Here are a few more clues to help you out. Separate the eggs. Beat the egg whites until stiff peaks form. Beat the egg yolks until they're thick and lemon colored. According to the recipe, the egg yolk mixture is usually folded into the egg whites, then poured into a well-greased frypan. Cook over low heat for several minutes (usually 3 to 4) until the underside is golden brown. Then transfer it to the oven and bake as the recipe directs. When the surface of the omelet is golden brown and firm to the touch, remove the skillet from the oven. Follow the recipe directions for fillings, then make a deep crease across the top of the omelet through the centre and fold in half with the aid of a spatula.

Omelets may be glamorized with fillings, toppings and sauces. Fillings may include cheese, preserves or jelly, vegetables, fruit or meat. Among the many sauces and toppings, choose from seafood or meat in a basic cream sauce, crumbled bacon, grated cheese, powdered sugar, toasted coconut or chopped nuts.

That's all there is to unscrambling the omelet mystery! Food Advisory Services, Agriculture Canada thought they'd give you some extra help by preparing a few omelets of their own. The Ham and Cheese Omelet is very French, and the Spanish Omelet, as well as the Peach and Rum Omelet are both puffy.

pan occasionally and lift cooked edge of omelet to let uncooked part run underneath.

When omelet is set but surface still moist, increase heat to brown the bottom. Sprinkle 1/4 cup ham mixture, then 2 to 3 tablespoons grated cheese on half of omelet. Fold in half and place in 200°F oven to keep warm. Repeat with remaining egg mixture and fillings to make 6 omelets. 6 servings.

How Does A Wrinkle Start?

You've seen pictures of desert lakes. Dry land with cracks all over it. The cracks are there because there's no moisture under the ground. That's the way it is with a wrinkle. When the tiny cells under your skin dry out, the cells shrink. And outside, on your skin a wrinkle appears. Sooner or later it happens to everybody.

If you could get something to put pure, fresh moisture back into those cells, your wrinkles would fade. Even disappear. Now you can get that something at better drug and department stores. It's called 2nd Debut, a specially formulated beauty discovery that's been proven to help make wrinkles fade, even disappear. Both 2nd Debut with CEF 600 and 2nd Debut with CEF 1200 are guaranteed to help make facial skin look years younger in just 10 days or money back.

ZESTY CRANBERRIES AROUSE ROAST VEAL

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press

Veal breast, once the Cinderella of meats, is coming into its own. Nowadays many cooks who first try it because it is reasonably priced, go on buying it because it is easy to stuff and roast, delicious and attractive to serve.

The sweet-tart flavor of fresh cranberries complements this kind of veal roast and so we suggest serving the meat with a sauce or relish made from the berries and adding some of them to the stuffing.

CRANBERRY VEAL ROAST

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules
3/4 cup water
8-ounce bag herb-seasoned bread stuffing
1 cup fresh cranberries coarsely chopped
1 small red apple unpeeled, coarsely and coarsely chopped
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup minced parsley
2 bone-in breast of veal roasts each about 3 pounds, with pockets for stuffing

stuffing
6 slices bacon.

Cranberry sauce or relish. In a large skillet heat the butter, bouillon granules and the water until the butter melts and mixture begins to boil. Stir in the stuffing, cranberries, apple, celery and parsley. Check pockets in veal and enlarge if necessary. Fill pockets with stuffing. Sew together openings with a darning needle and coarse white thread or close with small skewers and twine. Arrange bacon over top anchoring ends with toothpicks. Place bone side down in a shallow roasting pan and roast in a 325-degree oven until very tender — 2 1/2 to 3 hours; if bacon becomes too brown toward end of roasting, cover with foil. Serve with cranberry sauce or relish.

B.C. SPARTANS

Look a lot like McIntosh, don't they? But there are some differences. The colour of the Spartan is a deeper, richer red; the flesh is a snowier white; the core is smaller, giving you more useable apple... and they have a distinctive, inviting flavour that many folks like even better than a Mac.

Why don't you give B.C. Spartans a try? You just might like them as much as McIntosh... even more!

Preggie Padding

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I plan to adopt a baby without friends and relatives knowing it was adopted. We feel that we would be shielding the child from the many embarrassing questions and remarks to which most adopted children are subjected. We plan to announce my "pregnancy" three or four months before we actually bring the child into our home.

Could you please tell us where we could buy some "padding" that actresses wear to make them look like they are carrying a child. Thank you. — FUTURE MOTHER.

Greeks Have a Way with Lamb

One of the traditional dishes in a Greek kitchen is an aromatic creation known as arni sto harti. It is basically leg of lamb seasoned with a variety of herbs and baked in parchment. In present day homes, aluminum foil substitutes for the traditional parchment.

ROAST LAMB IN FOIL

LA GRECQUE
1 eight-pound leg of lamb, boned, rolled and tied
3 cloves garlic, cut into slivers
Salt and freshly ground pepper
18 small white onions, peeled
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 tablespoon olive oil
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped dill
2 tablespoons finely chopped scallions
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves, crumbled

1 large bay leaf
Grated rind of one lemon Juice of one lemon.
Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Make small gashes in the skin of the lamb and insert the garlic slivers. Sprinkle the lamb all over with salt and pepper to taste.

Drop the peeled onions into boiling salted water to cover and parboil about three minutes. Drain.

Heat the butter in a large skillet or casserole and brown the lamb on all sides about 10 minutes. Add the onions and continue cooking, browning the onions lightly about five minutes.

Spread out a four-foot length of 18-inch-wide heavy-duty aluminum foil. Place the meat in the centre of the foil. Spoon the onions from the skillet and set aside.

Pour off excess fat from the skillet and add the wine.

Bring to boil, stirring around the bottom and sides of the skillet to dislodge the crusty brown particles that cling there.

Rub the olive oil over the lamb. Blend the parsley, dill, scallions and oregano and rub this over the lamb. Place the bay leaf on top. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, grated lemon and lemon juice. Add onions and pour the pan liquid over all. Bring up the ends and sides of the foil and seal securely in the neatest manner possible.

Place the package in a baking pan and bake two and one-half hours. If a small amount of liquid escapes, it will not be critical but the meat is sealed inside the foil, the better the dish will be.

Loosen the foil and remove the meat. Slice it and serve with the onions and cooking liquid.

Yield: Twelve or more servings.

LAMB TIMETABLE

Delicious, delicate flavored lamb is available to Canadian consumers all year round. But, it's in the fall months from September to December that fresh Canadian lamb is most plentiful and most reasonably priced. Because lamb is from a young animal, the meat is tender and most cuts can be cooked by dry heat — that is broiled, panfried or roasted in a 325-deg. F oven.

Lamb lovers would be quick to agree that roast lamb is a special dish that goes well on the menu any time. Place the lamb on a rack in a shallow pan and season. Roast uncovered at 325 deg. F. to the desired degree of doneness: 145 deg. F. on a meat thermometer for medium (pinkish grey) or 165 deg. F. for well done (brownish grey). Roasting times are based on the meat being at refrigerator temperature (40 deg. F.) at the start of cooking. After removing the roast from the oven, let it stand for about 10 minutes, to make carving easier. Food Advisory Services, Agriculture Canada recommend the following roasting times for tender, juicy roast lamb.

Total Cooking Time (hours)

Weight (pounds)	Cut	Medium done	Well done
5-7	Leg-whole	2-3/4	2 1/2
3-4	Shank	1 1/2	2-2/4
3-4	—butt	2-2/4	2 1/2
2-3	Loin	1 1/2	1-1/4
3-6	Shoulder	1 1/2	2-2/4

Is Whole Wheat Flour Wholesome?

By RUTH PREMES and ZA KSABRY

First question: "whole wheat flour" contains the entire wheat kernel — including the wheat germ. Right?

The answer is no. It does not contain wheat germ.

Second question: since it doesn't contain the wheat germ, calling it "whole wheat flour" is against the law. Right?

Once again, the answer is no. And when one of our readers asked those two questions — the first to the milling company who made the "whole wheat flour" she bought and the second to us, she was frankly indignant.

The answer is the Food and Drug Regulations. Item B.13.005 specifies that whole wheat flour "shall contain natural constituents of the wheat berry to the extent of not less than 95% of the total weight of the wheat from which it is milled." According to the Government, in other words, 95% equals 100% when we're talking about whole wheat.

There's no dishonesty about this in the milling industry in Canada. Millers and bakers will tell anyone — including our reader when she asked — that they remove the wheat germ. They have a pretty good reason for doing so. If the wheat germ was left in, the flour would go rancid very quickly.

And not only would one want to use the rancid flour, but the very fact that the flour has gone rancid also means that the vitamin E — the greatest virtue of the wheat germ — will have been destroyed.

That doesn't remove the problem: the Food and Drug Regulations in this case and in others actually encourage the consumer's not knowing what he's buying. And there's no excuse for that. Now that more and more people in Canada are becoming seriously concerned about the nutritional value of the food they eat, it's only reasonable

Apple Pancakes

2 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups milk
2 cups flour
4 tbsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. melted butter
4 medium apples, peeled, cored and grated juice and grated rind of 1 lemon

Add beaten eggs to milk, whip a few seconds. Sift together the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add to milk mixture; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Stir in the melted butter — again do not beat as mixture toughens if beaten. Combine the grated apples, lemon juice, and rind. Add to pancake batter.

Bake on greased hot griddle or frying pan over medium high heat, turning only once when bubbles appear on top. Serve with a bowl of cinnamon sugar: a teaspoonful of cinnamon mixed with a cup of sugar.

Yield: 15 to 20 medium pancakes.

Apple-Cheese Bread

1/2 cup shortening
Two-thirds cup sugar
2 eggs beaten
1 1/2 cups grated, unpeeled apples
1/2 cup grated, sharp cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
2 cups all purpose flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. each soda and salt

Cream shortening and sugar, add eggs and mix well. Add apples, cheese, and nuts; blend the whole together. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix lightly. Bake in a well-greased 9x5 inch loaf pan in a 350 deg. F. oven 50 to 60 minutes.

What do you do if you want wheat germ with its valuable vitamin E — if 95% whole wheat isn't good enough for you?

You can't be sure that the whole wheat flour you buy in health food store will contain wheat germ anymore than the flour you buy at the supermarket, but you can buy wheat germ separately and add it to your baking. Be careful you don't buy "defatted wheat germ". It has the oil and vitamin E removed. Don't buy wheat germ in health food stores if it's merely packed in a plastic bag, stapled at the top and labelled in writing. Look instead for a known manufacturer's name on the label, and a tightly sealed box or jar with clear instructions to keep refrigerated once opened.

That may seem like a lot of trouble just to get truly 100% whole wheat bread. It is.

Because more people are concerned about their nutrition today, industry no longer has a good excuse for producing whole wheat flour without the wheat germ, and Government has even less excuse for tolerating 100% that are really only 95%. It's high time industry and government put their minds to making sure Canadians can buy food, that is reasonably priced and truly nutritious.

Halloween Hobgoblins

Mary Moore

I took a verbal private poll: Question: "Do your kids prefer to go out on Halloween for loot or would they be content with a party at home?" The answer was an emphatic: "They want to dress up and go out."

Maureen and Margaret qualified this by saying they let them go out under their Dad's observation and then come home to supper and bring a few of their friends when they excitedly compare their booty.

For the mothers of the very young who fear the cold, dark and rain but anticipate the fun I have this idea. Dress them up and let them go on their restricted rounds with Dad on the sidewalk, then each one bring back a close friend for supper.

Meanwhile get ready.
HOBGOBLIN BURGERS
1½ lbs. ground chuck beef
1 tsp. sweet pickle liquid
6 round slices process cheese
6 hamburger buns, split lettuce, shredded catsup

6 tomato slices
2-3 c. bread and butter pickles
12 pimiento strips
12 dried apricot halves
12 dark seedless raisins
3 radishes, halved lengthwise
3 gherkins cut in halves lengthwise

Combine ground chuck beef and pickle liquid; shape into twelve 4" round patties. On each of six patties place 1 slice of cheese. Top with remaining meat patties; seal edges very well. Broil approximately 4" from preheated broiler 6 to 8 minutes, turning once.

TO ASSEMBLE EACH BURGER:

Place in layers on six of the bun: halves—lettuce, cooked burger, catsup, 1 tomato slice, 3 bread and butter pickle slices. Top with remaining bun halves.

TO MAKE EACH HOBGOBLIN FACE:

Turn burger over so bottom of bun is up. Assemble face: use 2 pimiento strips for eyebrows, 2 dried apricots with raisins for eyes, radish piece (cut into diamond shape) for nose and one gherkin half for mouth; secure with toothpicks, if needed. To serve, place each "Hobgoblin" on an individual plate; remove any toothpicks.

Serve with hot spiced apple juice or elder made by simply bringing to boil with 3 or 4 sticks cinnamon and about 6 whole cloves.

Last week, I suggested a Hungarian menu but my all-time favorite is Italian. It has saved my reputation and household budget on many occasions.

Italian cooking is a superb cuisine — not only delicious and filling, but if prepared from basics, is incredibly inexpensive and can be presented with a flair.

When I think Italian, it's garlic bread, soup, homemade spaghetti with meatballs and sauce, with grated Italian cheese, fruit to follow, a barrel of my own homemade red wine — Chianti style — and Italian pop for the non drinkers, just to keep things authentic.

For the romantic atmosphere use straw-covered empty Chianti bottles — fiaschi — fitted with candles. Let them burn and drip candle wax down the neck of the bottles. Never forget that the visual impact is important to dining, not just in the attractive look of the food, which is very important, but in the whole concept of the table.

Since I need lots of writing space to pass on to you my version of my pasta soup, I'll leave that for a later column.

Let us take a simple and inexpensive, yet beautifully "special" meal for a family or a small dinner party in a kind of Southern Italian style. Just a meal of spaghetti and meat sauce, garlic bread and a big bowl of fresh fruit.

There are few places around North America that are out of reach of an Italian bakery and those superb crusty, no-fat, long, oval loaves that are superior to all other breads.

For one loaf, I finely chop THREE whole, peeled garlic cloves and mash them with the back of a spoon into either a pound of butter, the cheaper 70 per cent spread or soft margarine, and let it sit in a warm kitchen to blend.

When the garlic-mix spread is soft, I carefully slice a loaf of Italian bread from top, almost to bottom, spread the mix inside each slice, smear any extra on the outside, with cooking oil, hopefully olive oil but cheaper vegetable oils are fine, brown two large onions, quartered and thinly sliced and when they turn yellow, drop in finely chopped beef or pork and turn over and over scoop away excess fat, until the meat has excess fat, until the meat has an even color.

Now turn meat and onions into a heavy pot and add — stirring — one thinly sliced red or green sweet pepper, one can Italian plum tomatoes, one tablespoon tomato puree, dash of oregano, dash of thyme, sprinkle of dried parsley flakes, lower the heat, cover and let flavors blend — then add salt and pepper to taste.

PERFECT SPAGHETTI

Just follow the instructions on your bought packet of spaghetti, using twice as much boiling water with salt as suggested and forking it around to keep the strands loose. Good pasta needs a lot of room. If you drain it and run cold water over it then drain again and set it to steam over a little water in a covered pot, it should come to serving a little crispy to the bite but never sticky. And this way it gives a bit of cooking time leeway while you deal with other tasks before serving.

Serve pasta in one bowl, meat sauce in another and pass grated Italian cheese and packaged crushed red-hot peppers for individual use.

A rough young red wine or an imported Chianti is ideal with this. You might also serve a separate green salad and SHOULD offer a bowl of fresh fruit and cheese after.

Almonds and chocolate speak for themselves — and for you. Favorites with just about everyone, they can be scrumptious confirmation to your guests that you care enough to plan and prepare tantalizing treats.

All-Out Almond Cake

5 eggs, separated
¾ cup sugar

Mix flour, almonds, baking powder and almond extract into egg yolk mixture. Fold in egg whites. Turn into two 8-inch round layer cake pans that have been lined with brown paper and greased on bottoms.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until a light touch in centres doesn't leave imprints. Cool until cake sinks just below top edge of pans. Turn pans over and cool cakes in pans upside down. Loosen edges and remove from pans. Peel off paper.

Pipe border around top edge. Spread sieved jam on top. Garnish with whole almonds and chocolate curls. Store cake in refrigerator. Remove 20 to 30 minutes before serving. (Should be cool but not cold when served.) Makes 1 cake.

1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups toasted whole wheat flake cereal
2-3 cup slivered almonds

Melt half of chocolate bits in saucepan, stirring constantly over low heat. Mix flour with baking soda and salt. Cream butter with sugar and egg; beat in melted chocolate, vanilla and the flour mixture. Stir in remaining chocolate pieces, the wheat flakes and almonds. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet; flatten slightly. Place additional slivered almonds on tops if you wish. Bake at 375 degrees 9 to 10 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes about 2 dozen large cookies.

Almond Thins

1 cup butter or margarine
½ cup brown sugar, packed
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups flour
1¼ cups diced almonds, roasted
1 package (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces

Cream butter with both sugars. Beat in egg yolk and vanilla. Stir in flour and ½ cup of the almonds. Spread in 13x9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Sprinkle hot base with chocolate pieces; spread chocolate to cover entire base as it melts. Sprinkle with remaining ¾ cup almonds, pressing them lightly into chocolate. Cut into squares while still warm, but do not remove from pan until cold. Makes 48 squares, about 1½-inches each.

CHOCOLATE, almonds make many tasty combinations in cookies, crunches, butter balls and jumbles — a wonderful spread for entertaining.

indoor gardens

By LYNN and JOEL RAPP

Dear Lynn and Joel: My plants have given me something I never had before, an "outside interest."

I've started four scarves, two needlepoints, a major kitchen shelf relining and one crocheted bathing suit, but never completed a single one.

Now, much to my surprise, I find that I think about my plants at odd times during the day, get up a half-hour early each morning so that I can spray and check each one carefully, and then spend at least three hours on my one day off transplanting or rummaging through local plant shops or nurseries. And I love every minute of it!

I used to poke fun at people who talked to their plants until I tried it. Now I even play music for them. I'm now what is commonly known as a "plant nut." It's great!—P.N.

Colored Courts

NEW YORK (CP) — Now that color has been allowed on to the tennis courts, many United States fashion designers are getting patterns into uniforms and warmup clothes. Stripes, dots, solid colors and heart patterns are being added to the outfits.

DEAR P.N.: We receive many letters from former skeptics who are finding plants a healthy and fun addition to their lives. The plants certainly do enjoy music. (Actually it's the vibration they feel.) Whatever your taste in music, the plants will be content. Just don't let them hear the news!

Mayors Share Printers' Ink

WINNIPEG (CP) — Doug McBride, Bruce Keddie and Walter Perepeluk all have something in common—besides being mayors of northern Manitoba communities.

All are editors or publishers of their communities' newspapers.

All admit that a potential conflict of interest therefore exists, but say that they are able to cope with it.

"There isn't more conflict of interest than I would find in a member of the provincial government who has a vast information service at his disposal," Mayor McBride of The Pas says.

But Mayor McBride who also edits The Herald, admits that the hard-hitting attacks levelled earlier at town administrations have ceased.

Many of his readers agree. The Pas town councillor Don Many says: "Before The Herald criticized the hell out of every town council, I fight with the mayor continuously but I have to admit he's a helluva good mayor. He's definitely no dummy."

Mayor Bruce Keddie of Flin Flon, who edits The Daily Reminder, says:

"There is no way I could have anything to do with reporting council or city hall. I've told my reporter she has a free hand and can be as critical as she wants to be in her column."

"I only write a column called From the Mayor's Desk, but even there all I try to do is to give people information and facts."

Says Roy Symonds, area representative for the United Steelworkers of America in the Flin Flon district: "You couldn't change Keddie's way of doing things. The Reminder covered council well before he became mayor and there's been no difference since."

Steve Novak, a Flin Flon hotel owner, goes even further.

He says the paper's editorials are open-minded and the reporting "paints a better picture of what is happening at city hall because Keddie is in full possession of all the facts and does not have to guess."

In Lynn Lake, Mayor Perepeluk acts as printer, pressman and publisher of The Breeze as well as operating a large food and department store. He says his reporter is free to report council as she sees it, though he corrects copy when it "gets too far out of line."

Letters criticizing council are printed verbatim.

Al Plaskett, Steelworkers area representative, says, "I'm no Perepeluk fan but I have to admit the reporting on council isn't editorialized or biased. Some criticism is printed."

Joan Cox, in business at Lynn Lake, said she dislikes the way The Breeze editors keep harping on one or two themes like the state of the highway system and the need for a second television channel. But she adds: "I'm writing The Breeze saying what I think and I'm quite sure my letter will be printed."

Mayor McBride's sharpest critic is former mayor Jack Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy said the effect of one man holding the positions of mayor and publisher has been "devastating to the town."

The doubling of water rates last year was a result, he says.

An official notice in fine print appeared in The Herald but the council passed a resolution and made it law before the public knew what was happening. A petition against the increase was circulated after the fact.

"That's the kind of gut-issue that should be given big coverage in a local paper. It has meant that some pensioners and low-income people haven't been able to water their gardens."

Mayor McBride says he was probably elected because he had been on the attack for so many years and the voters thought he should "put up or shut up."

New Report On Radiation Stuns U.S.

By DAVID BURNHAM

WASHINGTON (NYT)

Two federal agencies and health scientists from throughout the United States are reviewing the findings of a government-financed study about the cause of death of U.S. atomic workers that, if verified, could have a far-reaching impact on the use of nuclear power.

The study, based on the death certificates of 3,883 atomic workers who died between 1944 and 1972, concludes that occupational radiation exposure well below present government standards results in some increase in cancer deaths.

The study, financed for the last 12 years by $5.2 million in government grants was announced two weeks ago at a health symposium by a widely respected team of scientists. But its statistical analysis has already been questioned.

Roger Mattson, director of health and safeguards standards at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said in response to an inquiry that a preliminary review of the study "raised questions concerning the scientific methods used in the study."

The official added, however, that the study's conclusions required expeditious, detailed examination because they could be interpreted as showing that the existing national standards adopted by the National Academy of Science "seriously underestimated the risk of cancer arising from exposure to radiations."

The study, based on a comparison of the radiation exposures experienced by workers at the federal nuclear facility at Hanford, Wash., and their cause of death, is highly technical and involves complex statistical methods. It was done by Dr. Thomas F. Mancuso of the University of Pittsburgh; Dr. Alice Stewart, a British physician and epidemiologist with a worldwide reputation, and George Kneale, a research statistician.

Mattson said that the conclusion is at variance with other studies made by Dr. Mancuso.

If the new study's conclusions prove true, he said, it would mean the government has seriously underestimated cancer risk arising from radiation exposure.

The study, if confirmed, could have a profound effect on the nuclear industry, which, according to the latest available statistics, has about 35,000 employees who may be exposed to radiation.

The effects could be of two kinds. One serious question is whether additional radiation shielding that might be required to prevent cancer would be so costly that it would adversely affect the economic viability of generating electric power with nuclear reactors.

Compulsory Ship Radar Urged in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)

Two senators asked the U.S. Coast Guard Tuesday why it does not require collision avoidance radar on tankers and other vessels operating in U.S. ports and waterways.

Sens. Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. Wash.) and Russell B. Long (Dem.-La.) cite the "extremely distressing" loss of life in the recent collision between a ferry and a Norwegian tanker on the Mississippi River near New Orleans.

Magnuson is chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, with jurisdiction over the Coast Guard, and Long is chairman of its merchant marine subcommittee.

In a letter to the Coast Guard commandant, Admiral Owen Siler, they said the Maritime Administration requires collision avoidance radar on all tankers built with U.S. subsidies.

Also, they said, a research panel of the National Academy of Sciences just recently recommended that such radar be installed on all merchant vessels.

"Collision avoidance radar is available on the market today and is worth the cost," Magnuson and Long said in asking for a full explanation of what they said was a Coast Guard decision not to require it.

"The Coast Guard decision seems to go in the wrong direction," they said. "In fact, it may indicate that the Coast Guard is not carrying out its mandate under the Ports and Waterways Safety Act."

A second question, not limited to employees, is whether the Mancuso-Stewart findings will require a major increase in the official government estimates of the deaths that would be caused among the public in the event of a major reactor accident.

According to the death certificates examined by the researchers, 473 of the 3,883 atomic workers exposed to radiation well below the present exposure levels died of cancer. Of the 473 cancer deaths, the study concluded, about 6 per cent, or about 30 cases, would not have occurred if the workers had avoided the radiation.

Dr. Arthur Tamplin and Dr. Thomas B. Cochran, radiation experts on the staff of the Natural Resources Defense Council, said that their reading of the statistical tables of the Mancuso-Stewart study suggested that a worker assigned to an atomic reactor for three years increased his chance of dying of cancer by 18 per cent and one who worked in a reactor or similar environment for 15 years would double his chance of dying of cancer.

Both men, one a biophysicist and the other a nuclear physicist, are highly critical of nuclear power. They said that if the results of the study were applied to radiation exposures now being experienced at nuclear power reactors, "each year of plant operation will, on the average, ultimately cause three to four workers to die of cancer."

The Mancuso-Stewart study itself did not attempt to make such projections.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"That's good, I never did like its tiled top," said Betty, finding her brother busy on an old rectangular table with square ceramic tiles piled up on the floor beside him. "Just those blacks and golds alone will be much better, but you don't have many blacks."

Bob smiled. "One fewer than half the number of golds," he told her. "These tiles are all the same size, and they will cover the top exactly without any cutting. I'll have a border of golds one tile wide all the way around."

How many tiles would he use?

Quebec Leads Spenders

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial spending has increased dramatically in the 1970s, but Quebec, with only 27 per cent of the Canadian population, is the high roller, with 41 per cent of the total deficit for all provinces in fiscal 1976-77.

Over-all cash requirements for the year are about $2.1 billion, and could go higher.

A survey conducted by the Royal Bank of Canada indicates that despite spending cuts announced by the provinces, total cash requirements in the 1976-77 fiscal year will be $4.2 billion.

The study forecasts Quebec's budgetary deficit will be $862 million. Capital expenditures of $562 million and an additional $658 million to repay the Olympic deficit round the figure off to $2.08 billion.

However, the shortfall is probably higher. During the weekend Raymond Garneau, Quebec's finance minister, admitted that the province's budgetary deficit could reach $1 billion, adding about $140 million to the total.

Garneau also said that the province's revenues will decline $100 million this year, due to the province-wide construction strike at Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd. (Alcan) which has shut down Alcan's three aluminum smelters in Quebec since June.

The Royal Bank study projects that in fiscal 1976-77 the total cash requirements of the 10 provinces will be $4.2 billion, despite spending cuts.

It says that in the fiscal years 1971 to 1977, total provincial revenues rose 16.1 per cent to $32.1 billion from $13.1 billion, while provincial spending increased 17.2 per cent to $34 billion from $13.1 billion.

BOURASSA

More Moderate Bourassa Face Shows

By ROB BULL

MONTREAL — As he kicked off the second week of the Quebec election campaign Monday, Premier Robert Bourassa introduced some subtle new changes to his constitutional demands.

Gone from the party's program, for example, is any reference to cultural sovereignty, a vague phrase lifted from the Parti Quebecois.

Now, Bourassa talks about the inevitability of sharing responsibilities within a federal system and the economic and social benefits which result while the party program refers to things like legislative primacy.

For the first time in three years, for example, Bourassa says he does not want a provincial veto over the access of immigrants to his province.

Instead, the program says, "Since immigration is a constitutional jurisdiction shared between the federal government and the provincial government, Quebec's recruiting policy must be based on criteria set jointly with the federal government while being oriented to Quebec's needs."

"This implies recognition of the legislative primacy of the federal government in respect to the admission of immigrants, and legislative primacy of the provinces in respect of the establishment, integration and placement of immigrants, with a guarantee of participation by the province in the recruiting and selection of immigrants by the federal government."

Similarly, in the field of communications over which until now the provincial Liberal leaders have demanded absolute control, the Quebec party program now says it wants "recognition of the primacy of provincial legislation on communications systems within the provinces, especially on cable TV, including systems involving the reception and transmission of signals originating outside the province with the exception of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and other national networks." There is no mention of communications content.

Provincial primacy does not mean that the federal government cannot operate in a given field. It means simply that where provincial and federal legislation conflicts, the provincial law takes precedence.

The program says the Quebec Liberal party is in favor of patriating the constitution and will see that the new document includes the guarantees "necessary to protect the French language and culture."

"Quebec is and will remain the cornerstone of French Canada," the program says. "Consequently, the Liberal Party of Quebec proposes that Canada's new constitution bestow on the government of Quebec prime responsibility for the safeguarding and promotion of the French language and culture within the territory of Quebec."

Quebec 'Immoral' On Asbestos Rules

MONTREAL (CP) — The lack of government regulations to protect asbestos workers in Quebec is immoral, Judge Rene Beaudry said Wednesday.

The provincial court judge, who headed a three-member commission into health conditions in the asbestos industry, said the inquiry's final report will be issued to the Quebec government by the end of the month.

Judge Beaudry said during the taping of a CBC radio program to be broadcast Sunday: "There has been no concern about industrial health and security at the government level, and industry is going on the financial aspect of the situation."

"There are no standards for dust levels in the asbestos industry, only guidelines."

The guidelines set five fibres of asbestos dust per cubic centimetre of air as the suggested concentration. But studies have shown that even this level leads to cancer, asbestosis and related diseases.

Union and health officials have complained that dust levels as high as 700 fibres per c.c. have been found at mines in Quebec.

Improving industry conditions is "a question of social responsibility," Judge Beaudry said.

"The mining industry is capable of implementing technology more appropriately for the prevention of industrial sickness."

But the province's largest asbestos mining company has said it will not be able to meet the five-fibre level by Jan. 1, 1978, when proposed government regulations would come into effect.

Both Judge Beaudry and James Ham, who headed a similar inquiry in Ontario, agreed during the radio program that asbestos workers have not been adequately informed about working conditions by their employers.

Judge Beaudry said asbestos firms have been less than enthusiastic about investigations into dangers to their employees' health.

Ham, dean of graduate studies at the University of Toronto, agreed that "one of the most shocking things is that workers have not been able to determine dust and noise levels."

Unions do not have the right to examine air quality in mines.

Research at Thetford Mines, Que., by a team of specialists from New York's Mount Sinai Hospital in 1974 confirmed that many miners who had been given clean bills of health by company physicians were actually suffering from asbestosis or other diseases related to their work.

The studies showed that about 84 per cent of workers tested show signs of lung abnormalities.

The United Steelworkers of America, which represents some asbestos workers, has charged that one of the problems is that the employer must sometimes dismiss the worker before compensation can be awarded.

And since the company must pay the compensation, it is generally reluctant to lay off affected workers, the union says.

SAME CURRENCY, LEVESQUE SAYS

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec would remain within the current monetary system under a Parti Quebecois government, at least until the independence question was decided through a referendum, PQ leader Rene Levesque said Tuesday.

He made the comment during a lively exchange on the subject of independence with a city councillor during a city hall reception in nearby Longueuil.

The councillor, Jacques Bouchard, an active Liberal in the suburban municipality, said many people are frightened by the prospect of independence.

Levesque said he would not make any election promises but he said he hopes to transform plans into reality.

The first priority of a PQ government he would lead would be "to be the best provincial government possible."

"You should not try to frighten people with technical questions," Levesque replied.

Producer Hates 'Ogre' Image

TORONTO (CP) — Iyan Reitman is one of Canada's more successful film producers. But he's worried about his image.

It hurts that some members of the film community and the press think of him as a money-hungry ogre who makes exploitative movies, partially through the public funds of the Canadian Film Development Corp. (CFDC).

Some of his latest efforts have made a great deal of money but leave most critics cold because they appeal to the lowest levels of human reaction, such as mindless fear and stomach-wrenching revulsion.

Cannibal Girls was a comedy horror film about cannibalism. Shivers had filthy worm-like creatures crawling in and out of people while turning them into sex maniacs. And Death Weekend is a blood bath in which Brenda Vaccaro and her boyfriend are attacked by four bullies.

Shivers cost $183,000 and grossed $1 million in Canada alone. Death Weekend cost $325,000 "and has already made a profit although the money is not in our pockets physically yet," says Reitman.

Reitman was in Toronto recently to talk about Death Weekend. But the day didn't start out too well.

It started on CBC-AM's Metro Morning with a taped statement by Martin Kneleman, in which the film critic refused to see Death Weekend on the basis of his knowledge of Reitman's previous work and the new film's advertising campaign.

That was followed by an interview with Metro Morning host David Shatzky in which the two men quickly reached the parting of ways on the issue of whether or not Reitman's films were entertaining.

Reitman is based in Montreal where he is a partner with Andrew Link and John Dunning in Cinema Entertainment Enterprises Inc., a film production company. Link and Dunning are also owners of Cineplex Inc., a company involved in film processing, editing, distribution and exhibition.

Two weeks after Death Weekend was finished, "Andrew and I took it to Cannes where he sold it to virtually every free country in the world with the exception of a few in South America and the Middle East."

"The advances against distribution were a lot higher than the cost of the film so on paper we're ahead."

Reitman said there were so few action or horror pictures of sufficient quality that haven't already been snapped up by major distributors. Death Weekend thus "became a hot film to buy."

While Reitman makes movies to make money and therefore makes horror and action films, he believes that it is possible to create good examples of those film genres.

"I try to make the films as good as I can. I put more time into them than anybody else involved with them," Reitman says he "meddles" at every stage, from writing the script to shooting the footage to editing the final cut.

"If I was solely out for the money, I wouldn't be in this business. It's too tough. I know I could be a successful businessman in some other line of work. Look, I just try to make films that an audience will pay money to see; if it's not somebody's idea of art, well . . ."

Coin Machines Just for Kicks

By MARC MENG

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Stick your last coins in a soft-drink vending machine and it will emit its electronic chuckling and clicking noises and then dump your drink down the drain as the cup fails to fall in place.

Deposit your last quarter in a pay telephone 40 miles from the nearest change and it will swallow the coin and reward you with silence.

Pick any gumball machine and watch it for five minutes. Without fail, its little chrome chute will suck up a three-year-old's finger three knuckles deep.

When you get ripped off, or think you've been ripped off, by a vending machine, you say, "Aw, shucks," and walk away. Right? Wrong.

Even the most mellow and pacific gentleman or little old grandma is apt to seek revenge, whether it be with a boot to the machine's unfeeling body or a dainty tap with the heel of the hand.

Vending machines are subjected to almost every possible form of human abuse. People kick them, beat them with solid objects, run over them with cars and throw them into swimming pools.

There was even a case in North Carolina where a coffee machine failed to produce and got its neon brain blown out by a disgruntled customer packing a 45.

Those who sell, service and stock vending machines in this area say such vandalism is tapering off, mostly because of more dependable apparatus. But the public still regularly attacks the machines.

Tom Gibson, a soft drink controller, said his firm's damage recently has been held to about $1,500 to $2,000 a year because the machines have improved and the company is more choosy about where it puts them.

Lewis Bowyer, assistant service manager for another softdrink firm, said his company's machines get a workout.

"We're just getting one back together that was in a car wash," Bowyer said. "Somebody ran over it with a car."

Charles Looks Them Over

By LESLIE DOND

LONDON (Reuter) — Press gossips have been strongly predicting that a 25-year-old socialite named Davina Sheffield may one day be queen of England.

Friends and relatives have scoffed at the notion and an exasperated Davina, who has known Prince Charles for two years, said recently, "I'm bored with everyone suggesting there's a big romance between us."

She added that she had not even seen Charles, who commands the minesweeper Bronington, since last June.

Excitement over the prince's choice of a bride is bound to grow for the heir to the throne, who will be 28 in November, is expected to marry fairly soon.

The prince would accede to the British throne if the Queen, who has reigned for 24 years and now is 50, should die or abdicate in his favor.

There has long been speculation that the Queen may step down in favor of her son, and that the prince would certainly wish to be married well before his coronation.

Next year would be especially propitious for Charles to announce his engagement as it is jubilee year, marking the Queen's 25 years on the throne.

The Prince of Wales has been seen with many young women and has appeared to relish his long bachelorhood.

Charles, who has worked hard to fit himself to become king, knows the pressures that would fall on a bride not brought up to the royal task.

Miss Sheffield has many of the qualifications to be a royal bride. She went to the right schools and comes from a suitable upper-class family.

Her former boy-friend, 32-year-old powerboat designer James Beard recently said, "I am sure she will make a first-class wife and a thoroughly good queen."

Miss Sheffield at one time dabbled in interior designing and ran a craft shop in Kensington.

Then she went to Vietnam and tended war orphans until forced to flee to Bangkok just before Communist forces entered Saigon last year.

There is a tragedy in her life. Her mother was murdered by robbers who broke into her country house.

Prince Charles, the first royal heir to be educated outside the palace, has abandoned some of the rigidity of the crown and gives press interviews that would be unthinkable for his mother.

He has talked to interviewers of his loneliness and of his concern that he should make the right choice in his marriage.

"The last thing I could possibly entertain is getting a divorce," he has said.

The prince recently told a Canadian interviewer he had thought of marrying a princess or royal person as "they do know what happens."

His own family affords illustrations of the difficulties faced by a member of a royal family in marrying. His aunt, Princess Margaret, is separated from her husband. His great-uncle, King Edward VIII, had to give up the throne because he would not renounce the woman he wanted to marry, American divorcee Wallis Simpson.

Charles has always had an eye for attractive young women. He has taken them to watch polo and to dance cheek-to-cheek at Annabel's, a fashionable nightclub.

The press showed great interest in his long friendship with Lady Jane Wellesey, the Duke of Wellington's daughter, and other young women they believed he might marry.

Some of them, such as Lady Leonora Grosvenor and Lady Caroline Percy, have since married. His name was briefly linked by gossip columnists with Monaco's Princess Caroline, and he once escorted Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, Richard Burton's former fiancée.

'Travelling Salesmen' Help Cut Fire Losses

By PAT DUFUR
Times Staff

Bill Millar and George Lane are travelling salesman this week, and their stock in trade is safety.

They work out of the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver. Millar is supervisor of investigations and Lane is supervisor of cases involving flammable liquids, compressed gas and installation of facilities in public buildings.

Today and Tuesday Millar and Lane held a condensed version of a week-long course they usually give at their Vancouver headquarters.

The mini-course was held at the Red Lion Motor Inn and was arranged by lower Vancouver Island fire chiefs.

About 40 assistant fire marshals from this area attended, learning how to cut fire losses and ferret the cause of fires.

Millar and Lane are no desk jockeys. Between now and February they have another 14 field trips scheduled.

Millar has been with the fire marshal's department since 1936 but still retains the Irish brogue he had when he served with the police force in Northern Ireland.

Lane is well qualified to counsel on fire fighting and fire protection. Prior to joining the department he was fire chief at Valleyview, near Kamloops, for 17 years.

Field trips such as the Victoria one are essential, says Millar.

"We hold seminars in Vancouver, but except for field trips a lot of these guys wouldn't see us at all," Millar said.

Esquimalt policemen, fire-fighters, building inspectors and others attended the Victoria course and saw mangled remains of fire origins, some of which caused fatalities.

Saanich fire chief Harold Gains, who led the move to have Millar and Lane arrange the Victoria course, said the voluntary students have gained insight into fire safety procedures that will prove invaluable in the rapidly expanding Greater Victoria area.

Mail Route In Family 103 Years

COOKSTOWN, Ont. (CP) — For 103 continuous years, a Coleman has battled rain, sleet and snow to deliver the mail.

Three generations of the family have operated the community's post office and now have set a Canadian record for continuous service. Henry Coleman, grandfather of the current postmaster, began the dynasty in 1873. For three years until the rail line arrived at Cookstown, which is about 10 miles south of Barrie, Ont., he rode 30 miles every day by horseback to pick up the mail at Lefroy on Lake Simcoe.

The official document from the governor-general appointing him postmaster still hangs in the living room of his grandson, Henry Albert (Bert).

May Sutherland, a long-time resident, said she still recalls the original Mr. Coleman at the reins of his buggy on Main Street going to pick up the mail.

She said that from her seat in the village public school, she could see him heaving mail bags onto trains with such names as The Hog Special and The Virginia Creeper.

Bert Coleman and his wife have run the post office in a modern, yellow brick building for the last 30 years.

CANCER IN COOKING POT

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal health department chemist has found that residues of a commonly used fungicide that is harmless on raw fruits and vegetables can break down during cooking to form a toxic chemical known to cause cancer and fetus deformities in animals.

A spokesman for the federal government said Tuesday new regulations have been written and will be soon promulgated ordering the destruction of any food containing the toxic chemical created by cooking the fungicide.

William H. Newcome of the health department's food research division has found that EBCD fungicides, which include zineb, maneb and nabam, after cooking form a toxic chemical called ethylnitrosamine (ETN).

American studies indicate ETN causes liver and thyroid cancers in rats and mice at levels of 250 to 500 parts per million. It is known to cause deformities in the fetuses of pregnant rats fed it in doses which range from 50 to 5,000 times the amount found in cooked foods.

Dr. Newcome found that 14 days after four plots of tomatoes were treated with the maximum permissible level of EBCD fungicides, 24 to 37 per cent of the fungicide remained. With cooking, 33 to 48 per cent of these residues were converted into ETN.

Dr. W.P. McKinley, director general of the food directorate of the health protection branch, said Tuesday that ETN has never been found in Canada on foods sold at retail level because it degrades rapidly.

More Special Counsellors High on School Budget List

Greater Victoria school trustees Tuesday began mapping out the 1977 school district budget with a promise to look for ways to include funds for more special counsellors.

Trustee Dr. Hal Knight said he would like to see provision to reinstate the six (of 30) special counsellors who were put in regular classrooms in September because of a teacher hiring freeze.

It would cost about $320,000 to replace them in the classroom and put them back in their counselling positions, said Art Lamrock, director of pupil services and research.

William Garner, principal of Reynolds high school, told the special board meeting there was a "crying need" to retain special counsellors.

Janet Baird, in her last month as a trustee, asked board members if they really wanted to penalize the productive student by perhaps adding to the class size to free the counsellors from classroom duties.

Retiring board chairman Bill Ross said the district had also put a freeze on supplies last year and there was no public outcry. He suggested the cuts this year be made in areas "where they don't talk back to us."

But his suggestion to save money on school crossing guards drew fire from trustees.

Knight objected on the grounds that dollars should not be the main concern when children's lives are at stake.

The board also received a 147-signature petition from University of Victoria graduate student Donald MacDonald calling for the reinstatement of the special counsellors.

FAST MOVE FOR CRIC

MIAMI (AP) — It took less than an hour for Miami Police Chief Garland Watkins to transfer the public information officer who was quoted in a newspaper as criticizing the department's policemen.

"I knew there would be repercussions," said officer James Kelish. "But sooner or later you've got to stand up and say what you think."

Kelish says there are six good policemen among the 50 in the department.

He'll get to know one of them well. Shortly after Kelish was transferred to the accident investigation unit, Watkins transferred in a new supervisor — a woman sergeant.

Crash Hospitalizes Seven But None Seriously Hurt

Seven persons were taken to hospital after two cars collided on West Saanich Road at Mount Newton Crossroad Tuesday night.

Central Saanich police said none of the injuries was serious although both cars were demolished in the 6 p.m. mishap.

Five of the injured were taken to Royal Jubilee and included the drivers of both cars, Margaret Bob, 23, of 15 Latess Road, and Peter Charles, 16, of Beecher Bay, and three passengers, Angela Samson, 17, in the Bob vehicle, and Bert Charles, 16, and Leona Knute, 17, of Port Renfrew in the Charles car. Two other passengers in Bob's car, Francis Charles, 34, and Chuck Samson, 34 were taken to Resthaven.

Bob, Angela Samson and Knute were all in fairly good condition this morning. The others were treated and released.

Some MPs Racist, Angry Simma Says

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — Liberal backbencher Simma Holt charged Tuesday that some MPs are racist and anti-Semitic.

Holt said that anti-French attitudes by English-speaking MPs and anti-English attitudes by French-speaking members are in some ways worse than similar feelings among ordinary Canadians.

The B.C. Liberal, a member of the Jewish faith, also stated that she had "a personal experience of anti-Semitism" during a debate in the House of Commons.

Parliament, Holt declared "is not a nice place."

She was elaborating in an interview on remarks which she made in the Commons Monday night which angered some MPs.

"Racism is rampant in Canada and it is alive and thriving in this very House of Commons," she stated in the closing hour of the Throne Speech debate.

Martin O'Connell (Lib.-Scarborough East), a former Liberal cabinet minister, said Holt's charge caused him "considerable distress" and both he and Steve Paproski (P.C.-Edmonton Centre) urged her to withdraw the remark, which she later did.

Holt said that the racism in the House to which she referred "is not just on the Anglophone or the Francophone side — it is in other respects as well."

Holt's remarks seemed to underline a controversial statement by Ottawa-West Liberal MP Lloyd Francis in the Commons Monday evening charging that his party has imposed a double standard of retribution on members who criticize the government's bilingualism policy.

Francis claimed that Francophone members can say what they want about the language policy while English-speaking backbenchers will damage their careers if they criticize it.

Western Canadians, meanwhile, were defended Tuesday against charges of "bigotry" and "intolerance" on the language issue by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Addressing a Quebec audience, he pleaded for mutual understanding between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians.

"English Canada is a pluralistic and multicultural society with deeply ingrained democratic traditions. I tell you frankly that, in my view, there are no more fanatics in the West than there are in Ontario and Quebec," he told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Montreal.

"Unfortunately in English-speaking Canada as anywhere else, it's the fanatics who make the most noise and write the worst insanities."

FOOD DOWN —AIB

OTTAWA — Food for home consumption, as measured by the Anti-Inflation Board's food price index, has declined for the fourth consecutive month.

Food prices in mid-October were 0.9 per cent below those recorded in mid-September, and 3.1 per cent below mid-October last year. With the exception of the first two weeks in April, average retail food prices are at the lowest level recorded over the last twelve months. The index, based on 1974 prices equalling 100, stood at 114.7 on October 15 compared to 119.0 a year earlier.

In Vancouver the cost of a nutritious diet for a family of four was $47.42 compared to $45.10 in October last year.

This month, significant price declines were monitored for beef, pork, eggs, poultry, fresh fruit and sugar, while prices of fresh and processed vegetables, processed fruit, fish, and beverages have increased. The largest price increases recorded were for fresh vegetables, due mainly to the impact of unfavorable weather conditions on local supply.

Several food commodities are less expensive to buy now than a year ago, for example, beef, pork, poultry, fresh fruit, sugar, fats and oils.

PILOT DRUNK

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An autopsy showed alcohol in the blood of a ferry boat pilot whose Mississippi River craft collided with a tanker, killing an estimated 100 persons, Coroner Frank Minyard said today. "The blood alcohol level was .09 milligrams per cent," Minyard said.

TINY GIRL on rubble-littered street is shown how to hold automatic weapon by two youths at corner checkpoint of war-torn Beirut. Summit talks aimed at bringing peace to Lebanon continued today in Cairo, but Christian leaders vowed they would never let Arab League forces police their areas of the country and predicted the civil war will continue.

Inaction on Tax Reform Causing 'Unfair Hardship'

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Thousands of British Columbia taxpayers are carrying an unfair burden because recommendations in a property tax report have not yet been implemented, the report's author told the Times today.

"Property tax reforms are long overdue in British Columbia," Robert McMath said.

"Some of my recommendations should be in effect

this year. I am concerned because the provincial government has not acted and has not even released the report."

The McMath report recommends:

—That the provincial government pay 75 per cent of all school costs within five years (instead of an average of 43 per cent as at present).

—That all property be taxed at market value rather than assessed value.

—That the provincial government make a grant equal to its full property tax bill to each municipality. At present the province pays only the equivalent of 15 cents. In Victoria 15 mills will generate only $630,500 this year but under the McMath formula the city would get more than $4 million.

The report was delivered to the provincial government in August and was intended to be released immediately so the public could discuss it, McMath said.

In particular, it was to be the main topic of debate at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September.

Premier Bill Bennett said the report would not be released until cabinet had agreed on recommendations it would make to the Social Credit caucus. The report is expected to be discussed in general terms at today's Social Credit caucus meeting.

McMath, in a telephone interview, said: "The basic idea of the report is equity, to do what is fair in property taxation."

Some of the reforms are long overdue and many of them are in effect everywhere in Canada but in British Columbia.

He said Victoria and several other B.C. cities are suffering economic hardship because the provincial government holds valuable land but

SMALL RECOVERY SHOWN BY POUND

LONDON (Reuters) — The British pound made a small recovery on foreign exchange markets today, aided by buying in the Middle East and Europe that pushed it to just below $1.60 U.S.

After closing Tuesday at $1.5965, the pound at first went down below $1.59 but later moved up to around $1.5985. It was worth $1.5473 (Canadian) at noon today.

The depreciation of the pound since December, 1971, narrowed to 47.5 per cent at noon today, from a record-equalling 47.8 per cent earlier in the day.

'TOO MUCH LIQUOR'

Mayor Mike Young said today he is concerned that there may soon be too many liquor outlets in the Greater Victoria area.

Young was commenting on a statement by Frank Burger of Victoria, president of the B.C. Hotels Association, that beer parlors may soon be able to sell liquor as early as next month.

Burger said beer parlors need to be licensed for hard liquor because many small hotels cannot afford cocktail lounges and require liquor sales in order to survive.

A provincial government spokesman said Tuesday a statement on liquor laws will be made by Attorney-General Garth Girdom in November but it is not known whether liquor sales will be approved for beer parlors.

Young said the provincial government is under pressure to approve more liquor licenses because many firms see liquor sales as the answer to their economic problems.

"We may soon reach a point when we have too many liquor outlets in this area," the mayor said.

"I am not advocating a total freeze on liquor licenses but I think great care should be taken on any further applications. There should be a demonstrated need before an application is approved."

The mayor said city council is taking an equally tough stand on applications for neighborhood pubs for the same reason.

Young said he is not so much concerned about the blend of alcohol sold as the amount.

He said he can see no reason to oppose the sale of hard liquor in beer parlors when the same combination of beer and hard liquor is available in cocktail lounges but said he is concerned there may be too many outlets, especially in residential areas.

The mayor said hotels fail to realize that if there are too many liquor outlets, there will no longer be any money in liquor sales because of the fierce competition.

UNDERCOVER FOILS $80 MILLION HEIST

NEW YORK (UPI) — Undercover detectives, on stakeout since August, today arrested three men as they attempted to steal $80 million in currency, gold and diamonds from a Swissair cargo vault at Kennedy Airport, police reported.

"We had the place staked out," said Det. Anthony Cimato of the special operations unit. "They approached the location, entered, and upon their entering the hangar, we announced that we were there, told them to 'freeze' and placed them under arrest."

Cimato said one of the suspects, identified as Michael Belvedere, 47, of Queens, was reported to have "links" to the reputed crime family of Frank Tieri, once headed by the late Vito Genovese. He did not elaborate.

Cimato, whose unit is part of the public morals division, said police obtained "confidential information" about a possible heist last August and began an undercover investigation at that time that included having one officer pose as an airline guard at the hangar.

The investigation led to information about the attempt to break in today.

Excess Profit Firms Named

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The names of 96 firms who have agreed to reduce or restrain prices in order to comply with the guidelines on prices and profits were released today by the Anti-Inflation Board.

"These companies reported a total of $9 million in 'excess revenue' for their first compliance period under the anti-inflation program. They have filed plans, accepted by the board, setting out the way in which this money was to be returned to the public through company action either to reduce prices or to hold the line on prices while absorbing higher costs.

For the most part today's figures reflect the situation in the early stages of the program. Compliance period reports for the majority of firms, whose fiscal years ended December 31, 1975, covered only the first 2½ months of the program. The board has not completed examination of all first year compliance cases. A number of reports were received recently and further board decisions will be announced later.

Among the companies reporting excess revenue were these national firms:

Aldermans; Algoma Steel Corp.; Canadair; Christie Brown and Co.; Durbane Enterprises; Flintridge Co.; F. W. Woolworth Co.; Inmaco; Imperial Oil; International Paints; Kelsey-Hayes; Macdonald Tobacco Inc.; Macdonalds Restaurants; Olivetti; Sherritt-Gordon Mines; Welcome Wagon.

Major food companies reporting excess profit included: Borden Products; Canada Packers; General Foods; Kellogg; Salada Canada; Monarch Fine Foods; Swift Canadian.

Major drug companies included: Abbot Laboratories; Bristol-Myers; McNeil Laboratories; Merck Sharp and Dohme Canada; Parke, Davis and Co.; Sterling Drug; Warner Lambert.

Some 3,200 reporting businesses, representing 6,500 individual corporations, are required to file reports showing compliance with the price and profit guidelines.

While all must report annually, the board conducts a more current monitoring of business and industry by requiring 1,200 of the largest Canadian firms to demonstrate compliance by filing quarterly returns. If these interim reports show "excess revenue" is developing, the firms are advised to take corrective pricing action in order to avoid having "excess revenue" at the end of their fiscal year.

General Motors of Canada, which recently announced an initial hold-down on prices of 1977 model automobiles, is an example of such a case.

AMIN JAILS OWN SONS

NAIROBI (UPI) — President Idi Amin has sent two of his teen-age sons to reform school for unspecified crimes, Uganda Radio said today.

Amin sent the two boys, Abdu and Ali, to a Kampala prison last November accusing them of unspecified offenses, the radio said, and they were later moved to a reform school where they remain.

"It makes no difference they are my children," the radio quoted the president as saying.

Famed Scientist 'Rigged Researches'

Manchester Guardian

LONDON — A major scientific fraud involving rigged results has been charged against the late Sir Cyril Burt, the most respected British educational psychologist of his time.

His research studies are still the most widely-quoted in the world on the now-highly controversial subject of the relative influences of heredity and environment in determining human differences.

Researchers at Hull and Princeton Universities who have been going through his papers accuse him of falsifying his results for at least 20 years to prove his own view that heredity is a stronger factor than environment.

Mrs. Ann Clarke, reader in educational psychology at Hull, said that it was unfortunate that a great man should have to be exposed in this way.

In a joint statement, the Hull team, which also includes Professor Alan Clarke, outgoing professor of psychology said:

"Burt was responsible for misleading many of those engaged in the scientific study of man — a pathetic epitaph for someone with his gifts, earlier achievements, and scientific responsibilities."

Sir Cyril, who was knighted in 1945 and died in 1971, held more of the major British university chairs, public advisory posts, and professional posts in his subject than any one else of his day.

Even towards the end of his 88 years his contribution to education papers aroused major interest and respect during the 1960s.

After his death, Professor Hans Eysenck said in a radio discussion: "Intelligence within any particular group is largely determined by heredity."

"I thought everyone was taking this for granted. In fact the same point has been made ever since I was a student by Sir Cyril Burt, who carried out many of the best documented studies in this field."

Even though some of the psychologists agree with Burt's conclusions — they are satisfied that his work was fraudulent in many crucial ways.

Dr. Clarke said it was "certainly the case." That the figures he published as a scientific measurement of parental intelligence in 1943 were in fact guesswork.

No intelligence test was then available to provide a statistic as exact as the one he published — an impossibly high average IQ of 153.2 for higher professional and administrative parents, which suggested they were far more intelligent than Cambridge University scientists.

Revising this paper and titling it Intelligence and Social Mobility in 1961, he reduced his figures to a more plausible 137.

More seriously, he repeatedly produced the same statistical correlation of IQs from different surveys of different

WINNIPEG (CP) — Helen Applebaum finds it hard to contain her bitterness as she talks about the corner grocery store where she has spent the better part of the last 14 years.

"This isn't making a living, it's suffering," she tells a reporter. "I'm open 13 hours a day, six days a week. I work like a horse and I'm tired of it. My legs are giving out."

She pockets the change from the counter in front of her and continues: "Of course, I'd like to hire help or shorten my day, but I can't afford to, not when I earn only $1.25 an hour. I have my mortgage and utilities to pay. My Hydro alone's gone up $35."

Mrs. Applebaum, 53, has operated the store in Winnipeg's North End all by herself since her husband died three years ago. She's been trying to sell the store for almost as long.

What began as a vision of independent income and self-employment for her and others like her has faded. At least half of the 700 small grocery stores scattered around the city a generation ago are no more, victims of an age of supermarkets, "convenience" stores.

The competition from the latter, some of them with round-the-clock operations has ruined business for corner stores that long relied on filling small orders for customers between their regular weekly visits to supermarkets.

Harvey Shatsky, 62, the owner of a Mountain Avenue store in north Winnipeg, says he did two-thirds of his business between 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. before a convenience store opened in the neighborhood.

"It was good for us while others were only open till six. Now all this late-night competition is spreading the business thin. It's useless for little stores like mine to remain open after seven now."

With the competition, Mr. Shatsky says his income has fallen to subsistence levels. "If you try to make a living out of this business today, you're hitting the poverty line. I'd be better off working for somebody else at minimum wage."

The 125 member stores of Associated Retail Grocers, formed in 1933 to improve the lot of the independent merchant, has been unable to arrest the decline of the corner store.

The group's immediate past president, Saul Leszcz, sees retail beer sales as one way of giving storekeepers a boost, but the response from the provincial government has been negative.

Another possibility is resurrection of an ARG wholesale company to keep prices and delivery changes down to a minimum. But Joe Brodsky, treasurer and past president of the group, says many members no longer have the heart for such a venture.

"We have the licence and a pledge of financial support from the government to start a wholesale, but we haven't got the strength or support from our own members," he says. "We're getting older, not younger. Who wants the headaches?"

Health Clinic Opening On Kuper

Chief of the Pihelukut band on Kuper Island off Chehalis, Elsie Bob, will host the official opening of that island's first community health centre on Thursday.

Dr. Gordon Butler, regional director of Health and Welfare's medical services branch and Ivy Howell, visiting nurse from the MSB office in Duncan, will also be present at the opening.

The new unit, trailer, contains a fully equipped clinic, waiting room and teaching room, and replaces services formerly given in residents' homes.

Some MPs Racist, Angry Simma Says

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — Liberal back-bencher Simma Holt charged Tuesday that some MPs are racist and anti-Semitic.

Holt said that anti-French attitudes by English-speaking MPs and anti-English attitudes by French-speaking members are in some ways worse than similar feelings among ordinary Canadians.

The B.C. Liberal, a member of the Jewish faith, also stated that she had "a personal experience of anti-Semitism" during a debate in the House.

Parliament, Holt declared "is not a nice place."

She was elaborating in an interview on remarks which she made in the Commons Monday night which angered some MPs.

"Racism is rampant in Canada and it is alive and thriving in this very House of Commons," she stated in the closing hour of the Throne Speech debate.

Martin O'Connell (Lib.-Scarborough East), a former Liberal cabinet minister, said Holt's charge caused him "considerable distress" and both he and Steve Paproski (PC-Edmonton Centre) urged her to withdraw the remark, which she later did.

Holt said that the racism in the House to which she referred "is not just on the Anglophone or the Francophone side — it is in other respects as well."

Holt's remarks seemed to underline a controversial statement by Ottawa-West Liberal MP Lloyd Francis in the Commons Monday charging that his party has imposed a double standard of retribution on members who criticize the government's bilingualism policy.

Francis claimed that Francophone members can say what they want about the language policy while English-speaking backbenchers will damage their careers if they criticize it.

Western Canadians, meanwhile, were defended Tuesday against charges of "bigotry" and "intolerance" on the language issue by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Addressing a Quebec audience, he pleaded for mutual understanding between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians.

"English Canada is a pluralistic and multicultural society with deeply ingrained democratic traditions. I tell you frankly that in my view, there are no more fanatics in the West than there are in Ontario and Quebec," he told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Montreal.

"Unfortunately in English-speaking Canada as anywhere else, it's the fanatics who make the most noise and write the worst insanities."

FOOD DOWN —AIB

OTTAWA — Food for home consumption, as measured by the Anti-Inflation Board's food price index, has declined for the fourth consecutive month.

Food prices in mid-October were 0.9 per cent below those recorded in mid-September, and 3.1 per cent below mid-October last year. With the exception of the first two weeks in April, average retail food prices are at the lowest level recorded over the last twelve months. The index, based on 1974 prices equalling 100, stood at 114.7 on October 15 compared to 119.0 a year earlier.

In Vancouver the cost of a nutritious diet for a family of four was $47.42 compared to $45.10 in October last year.

This month, significant price declines were monitored for beef, pork, eggs, poultry, fresh fruit and sugar, while prices of fresh and processed vegetables, processed fruit, fish, and beverages have increased. The largest price increases recorded were for fresh vegetables, due mainly to the impact of unfavorable weather conditions on local supply.

Several food commodities are less expensive to buy now than a year ago, for example, beef, pork, poultry, fresh fruit, sugar, fats and oils.

PILOT DRUNK

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An autopsy showed alcohol in the blood of a ferry boat pilot whose Mississippi River craft collided with a tanker, killing an estimated 100 persons, Coroner Frank Minyard said today. "The blood alcohol level was .09 milligrams per cent," Minyard said.

Inaction on Tax Reform Causing 'Unfair Hardship'

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Thousands of British Columbia taxpayers are carrying an unfair burden because recommendations in a property taxation report have not yet been implemented, the report's author told the Times today.

"Property tax reforms are long overdue in British Columbia," Robert McMath said.

"Some of my recommendations should be in effect

this year. I am concerned because the provincial government has not acted and has not even released the report."

The McMath report recommends:

—That the provincial government pay 75 per cent of all school costs within five years (instead of an average of 45 per cent as at present).

—That all property be taxed at market value rather than assessed value.

—That the provincial government make a grant equal to its full property tax bill to each municipality. At present the province pays only the equivalent of 15 mills. In Victoria 15 mills will generate only $630,500 this year but under the McMath formula the city would get more than $4 million.

The report was delivered to the provincial government in August and was intended to be released immediately so the public could discuss it, McMath said.

In particular, it was to be the main topic of debate at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in September.

Premier Bill Bennett said the report would not be released until cabinet had agreed on recommendations it would make to the Social Credit caucus. The report is expected to be discussed in general terms at today's Social Credit caucus meeting.

McMath, in a telephone interview, said: "The basic idea of the report is equity, to do what is fair in property taxation."

"Some of the reforms are long overdue and many of them are in effect everywhere in Canada but in British Columbia."

He said Victoria and several other B.C. cities are suffering economic hardship because the provincial government holds valuable land but

Gov't Takes Aim At Loan Sharks

OTTAWA (UPI) — Consumer Affairs Minister Anthony Abbott introduced legislation in Parliament today aimed at protecting borrowers from loan sharks and eliminating confusion in the credit field.

The bill, Abbott said, seeks to assist and protect the borrower in all credit transactions, keep credit interest rates competitive and fight loan-sharking and other criminal activities.

A section of the bill prohibits the charging of "unwarranted interest rates."

In the case of a borrower who felt a lender was charging too high an interest rate, because of either the size of the loan or his financial status, the onus for the first time would be on the lender to prove the rate was warranted in any ensuing litigation.

Currently, the law requires the borrower to prove he has been exploited by paying exorbitant interest rates.

"Any Canadian who has to put his personal credit on the line has the right to demand a high minimum of protection, and the same right of protection belongs to the many millions of people who are trying to earn a little interest on their savings," Abbott said.

Another provision of the bill would give borrowers the unlimited right to pay off any non-mortgage loan at any time, without fear of being penalized by the lender.

"This new right for borrowers will encourage credit institutions to set fair and competitive interest rates," Abbott said. "I believe it will also encourage thrift and debt reduction at a time when consumer credit has been expanding rapidly."

In the area of mortgage payments, the borrower would be allowed to pay off the full mortgage in three years instead of the current going rate of five years.

Under the new bill, credit lenders would be required to divulge to the borrower twice yearly the cost and terms of the loan and the current status of the loan. Loan companies which advertise would be required to spell out the terms, rates and conditions of their loan transactions.

"In addition to dealing with legitimate credit institutions, this bill underlines my determination to help our police forces fight the ever-increasing crime of loan-sharking," Abbott said.

A section of the bill is devoted to loan-sharking, and would make it simpler for a borrower to go before the courts to prove he was a victim of a loan-sharking operation.

TWO N.B. PRISONERS HOLD GUARD HOSTAGE

DORCHESTER, N.B. (CP) — Two prisoners, one of them considered dangerous, took a Dorchester penitentiary guard hostage today.

Prison spokesman Tom Epp said that two hours after the guard was seized, negotiations began with the two convicts and the situation was "stable."

"We have been negotiating with the inmates to resolve the situation," Epp said. "To the best of our knowledge the guard's condition is stable. He's in no danger and there has been no injury."

Major food companies included: Abbot Laboratories; Bristol-Myers; McNeil Laboratories; Merck Sharp and Dohme Canada; Parke, Davis and Co.; Sterling Drug; Warner Lambert.

Some 3,200 reporting businesses, representing 6,500 individual corporations, are required to file reports showing compliance with the price and profit guidelines.

While all must report annually, the board conducts a more current monitoring of business and industry by requiring 1,200 of the largest Canadian firms to demonstrate compliance by filing quarterly returns. If these interim reports show "excess revenue" is developing, the firms are advised to take corrective pricing action in order to avoid having "excess revenue" at the end of their fiscal year. General Motors of Canada, which recently announced an initial hold-down on prices of 1977 model automobiles, is an example of such a case.

The mayor said hotels fail to realize that if there are too many liquor outlets, there will no longer be any money in liquor sales because of the fierce competition.

'TOO MUCH LIQUOR'

Mayor Mike Young said today he is concerned that there may soon be too many liquor outlets in the Greater Victoria area.

Young was commenting on a statement by Frank Burger of Victoria, president of the B.C. Hotels Association, that beer parlors may soon be able to sell liquor as early as next month.

Burger said beer parlors need to be licensed for hard liquor because many small hotels cannot afford cocktail lounges and require liquor sales in order to survive.

A provincial government spokesman said Tuesday a statement on liquor laws will be made by Attorney-General Garde Gardom in November but it is not known whether liquor sales will be approved for beer parlors.

Young said the provincial government is under pressure to approve more liquor licenses because many firms see liquor sales as the answer to their economic problems.

"We may soon reach a point when we have too many liquor outlets in this area," the mayor said.

"I am not advocating a total freeze on liquor licenses but I think great care should be taken on any further applications. There should be a demonstrated need before an application is approved."

The mayor said city council is taking an equally tough stand on applications for neighborhood pubs for the same reason.

Young said he is not so much concerned about the blend of alcohol sold as the amount.

He said he can see no reason to oppose the sale of hard liquor in beer parlors when the same combination of beer and hard liquor is available in cocktail lounges but said he is concerned there may be too many outlets, especially in residential areas.

The mayor said hotels fail to realize that if there are too many liquor outlets, there will no longer be any money in liquor sales because of the fierce competition.

Famed Scientist 'Rigged Researches'

Manchester Guardian

LONDON — A major scientific fraud involving rigged results has been charged against the late Sir Cyril Burt, the most respected British educational psychologist of his time.

His research studies are still the most widely-quoted in the world on the now-highly controversial subject of the relative influences of heredity and environment in determining human differences.

Researchers at Hull and Princeton Universities who have been going through his papers accuse him of falsifying his results for at least 20 years to prove his own view that heredity is a stronger factor than environment.

Mrs. Ann Clarke, reader in educational psychology at Hull, said that it was unfortunate that a great man should have to be exposed in this way.

In a joint statement, the Hull team, which also includes Professor Alan Clarke, outgoing professor of psychology said:

"Burt was responsible for misleading many of those engaged in the scientific study of man — a pathetic epitaph for someone with his gifts, earlier achievements, and scientific responsibilities."

Sir Cyril, who was knighted in 1946 and died in 1971, held more of the major British university chairs, public advisory posts, and professional posts in his subject than anyone else of his day.

Even towards the end of his 88 years his contribution to education papers aroused major interest and respect during the 1960s.

After his death, Professor Hans Eysenck said in a radio discussion: "Intelligence within any particular group is largely determined by heredity."

"I thought everyone was taking this for granted. In fact the same point has been made ever since I was a student by Sir Cyril Burt, who carried out many of the best documented studies in this field."

Even though some of the psychologists agree with Burt's conclusions — they are satisfied that his work was fraudulent in many crucial ways.

Dr. Clarke said it was "certainly the case." That the figures he published as a scientific measurement of parental intelligence in 1945 were in fact guesswork.

No intelligence test was then available to provide a statistic as exact as the one he published — an impossibly high average IQ of 152.7 for higher professional and administrative parents, which suggested they were far more intelligent than Cambridge University students.

Revising this paper and titling it Intelligence and Social Mobility in 1961, he reduced his figures to a more plausible 139.7.

AMIN JAILS OWN SONS

NAIROBI (UPI) — President Idi Amin has sent two of his teen-age sons to reform school for unspecified crimes, Uganda Radio said today.

Amin sent the two boys, Abdu and Ali, to a Kampala prison last November accusing them of unspecified offenses, the radio said, and they were later moved to a reform school where they remain.

"It makes no difference they are my children," the radio quoted the president as saying.
